

Johnson Says FDR Knew War Inevitable As Early As 1938

Washington, Oct. 23 (P)—Louis A. Johnson, former assistant secretary of war, said today that he and President Roosevelt knew early as 1938 "that war was coming and we could not stay out of it."

Johnson, who served as assistant secretary from 1937 until 1940, testified before the senate war committee which is trying to learn why a detailed industrial mobilization plan was discarded after Pearl Harbor.

At first Johnson asked that his account of pre-war moves in connection with the late president be "off the record," but Chairman Brewster (R-Maine) said the testimony should be open to the public.

Says Efforts Blocked

Johnson said that his efforts to prepare this country for war were blocked by two former cabinet members—former Secretary of Labor Perkins and former Secretary of War Woodring—and Gen. Brehon Somervell, wartime chief of the army's supply service.

Johnson said that a detailed industrial mobilization plan "was ditched by brass hats because it did not suit the program of General Somervell."

He also said that Secretary of Defense Forrestal had made "incorrect" and "inexact" statements about the reason for shelving the program.

"Helter-Skelter" Conditions

At one time, Johnson testified, Somervell "even planned to get rid of General Marshall." He referred to George Marshall, then army chief of staff and the now secretary of state.

Johnson, a Clarksburg, W. Va., lawyer and former American Legion commander, related that as assistant secretary of war he "had confidential information that war was inevitable."

But, he said, conditions were so "helter-skelter" in war preparations that he went to Mr. Roosevelt to inform him of what was going on.

He said that Mr. Roosevelt was surprised and "told me to go to Mr. X and have that General transferred." He did not identify either "Mr. X" or the general involved and at his request, the committee did not question him on that point.

But the members did press him on how he knew war was inevitable. Johnson replied that the information came "from many sources" including reports of military attaches in Russia, Germany and other nations of Europe.

The witness said that he and President Roosevelt discussed these matters and he was urged to revise the industrial mobilization plan. He said that eventually all the key points of the plan were put into operation and "this was the program that won the war."

"Roosevelt Was Right"

"Another source of the impending war," Johnson said, "were American business men with factories and interests abroad. They were not spies. They understood what they saw and reported everything that was unfriendly to this country."

Senator Pepper (D-La.) broke in to say that Mr. Roosevelt was right then in "trying to warn this country that war was coming."

"Yes and I even went further than he did in my speeches," Johnson said.

A general campaign to raise $3,000 to pay for the new Emmitsburg fire engine and equipment and also for some necessary repairs is now under way.

DUTCH TRAITS WIN PRAISE OF CLUB SPEAKER

Pennsylvania Germans were described to members of the Gettysburg Woman's club Wednesday afternoon as "the essence of democracy, a strongly American people that command the respect of the world," in a talk by Dr. Bryon K. Horne, headmaster of Linden Hall, Latitz.

Dr. Horne's topic was "Contributions of the Pennsylvania Dutch to the American Way of Life."

Introduced by Mrs. George R. Larkin, club American home and citizenship department chairman, Doctor Horne said many of the Pennsylvania Germans originated from the Rhine valley in Germany and came to this country over various routes. The Protestant Reformation drove them down the Rhine valley and across the Atlantic. Many of the Amish settled at Germantown by 1742 and then moved into Lancaster, York and Dauphin counties.

From Varied Stock

Not all Pennsylvania Germans come from German stock, the speaker stated, listing Irish, Welsh, French, Latin, Greek and Korean as having a share in their ancestry.

Although the "Dutch" disappeared of public education, they had vocational education as early as 1742, the women were told.

The "Dutch" were able to make good livings from farms on which English had been starving. They are a resourceful people, Dr. Horne said, and for generations made much of their own furnishings and equipment. Old Pennsylvania Dutch (Continued on page 2)

OFFICER'S BODY IS ENROUTE HERE

The body of Lt. (jg) Delbert L. Gideon was on the last part of its way here today, with a local funeral director scheduled to receive the body Friday morning at Littlestown.

Five army ambulances converted into olive-drab hearses today began moving the bodies of war-dead, brought back for burial in America, from the Philadelphia quartermaster depot to various railroads for delivery to undertakers selected as recipients.

Each hearse carried a flag-draped coffin enclosed in its wooden shipping case, according to an Associated Press report from Philadelphia.

According to Col. Turner Sharp, commanding officer of the depot at Philadelphia, the first day's schedule calls for delivery of 30 caskets. Another in the group of 30 scheduled for movement during the first day was S 1/c Guy W. Overcash, Chambersburg.

The first in the list of bodies consigned directly to the National cemetery here for burial is scheduled tentatively to arrive next Thursday.

Lieutenant Gideon, a veteran of 17 years' service in the navy, died July 31, 1944, in a plane crash in the Pacific. He was the husband of Mrs. Sara Black Gideon, Baltimore street.

Hubby Jailed On Count Wife Forgot

Harold Lumm, Fairfield R. D., spent Monday night in jail here because of a warrant sworn out by his wife, Catherine, last July, which she said she "had forgotten about."

At that time she charged her husband with desertion and non-support, and the warrant was forwarded to police at Waynesboro. In the meantime, Lumm and his wife went back together again. When Lumm visited Waynesboro Monday, he was arrested, however, on the old warrant, and Constable Leo Riley brought him to Gettysburg.

The consent of the county court had to be obtained Tuesday before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore could dismiss the case.

Leonard Shaffer, Gettysburg R. 1, arrested on a surety of the peace charge on complaint of his wife, Lottie, was discharged when the couple settled their differences.

START REPAIR OF STORE ROOM

R. S. Noonan, Inc., York contractors who have been erecting several new homes south of the Warner hospital, today began work on alterations to the building on the south side of York street just east of the Wilks house which, when completed, will provide a new department store in Gettysburg.

The property has been leased for more than a year by P. Ward Stallsmith to the Interstate Department Stores which operates a chain of more than 100 stores in several states. Bowling alleys formerly located in the building relinquished space on the ground floor a year ago, but it was not until today that alterations were started. It had first been announced that the store would be completed and occupied before Christmas last year.

A borough building permit places the cost of the alterations at $10,000.

Montgomery Says Reds Do Not Dominate Actors

Washington, Oct. 23 (P)—Actor Robert Montgomery told House investigators of Hollywood Reds today that there are Communists in the Screen Actors Guild but "never, under any circumstances" have they succeeded in dominating the actors.

"We have had in the Screen Actors Guild a very militant, a very small minority, well organized, well disciplined," he said.

Montgomery was the first of four actors called to testify before the House committee on un-American activities, now in its fourth day of hearings on Communism in the film capital.

A big sigh went up from a jam-packed audience, largely feminine, when Montgomery took the stand. Montgomery followed two screen writers, Fred Niblo, Jr., and Richard Macaulay, who both testified they believe Communistic influence exists among the writing profession in Hollywood.

Waiting to hear Actors Gary Cooper, Ronald Reagan, George Murphy and Robert Montgomery, hundreds stood outside the hearing room, waiting for a chance to get in.

Rep. Thomas (R-N. J.), committee chairman, secured an extra detail of capitol police.

EDITOR ASKED TO NAME PLANT FROM DRAWING

Of the many requests which readers of The Gettysburg Times sent to Dan P. Van Gorder, agricultural editor of this newspaper, box 1528, Washington 13, D. C., few are more interesting than the letter of a Gettysburg woman who enclosed a drawing of one of her plants and wanted to know the name of it.

"Your cactus-like plant is quite obviously a member of the Euphorbia family, maybe Euphorbia Splendens, often called Crown of Thorns," Mr. Van Gorder wrote in reply. He enclosed definite instructions for starting new plants from the parent, which the writer had requested.

"P.S. You are a capable botanical artist," Mr. Van Gorder appended to his reply.

Receives Many Queries

Mr. Van Gorder continues to receive many letters and many of the coupons clipped from The Gettysburg Times, requesting information on specific problems. One such letter read:

"Are there any statistics in regard to rural buildings having or not having lightning rod protection? Are there any statistics to prove that the fire hazard from lightning is reduced on buildings having such rod protection?"

"Are fire insurance rates reduced materially on buildings having rod protection? Are buildings protected by having large tall (taller than house) trees around the buildings? Are buildings without rods more apt to be struck than those with?"

This letter came from a Guernsey man, and Mr. Van Gorder furnished statistics to show that government publications claim "anyway from 85 to 99 per cent freedom from danger" for farm buildings equipped with lightning rods.

A reader from Bendersville wrote asking for information on a disease which attacks delphinium and another that attacks to know how to grow daffodils and hyacinths.

Other Inquiries

A Cashtown woman also wrote asking for instructions on growing both these flowers and an Ardenville resident sought a means of getting rid of slugs, snails and millipedes. From Fayetteville R. 1, came a request on bee-keeping and where to buy bees.

Another Guernsey resident wrote: "Thank you for the right answers to my questions in your letter of July 25," and asked for information on preparing a lawn, and planting iris, chrysanthemums and flowers for borders.

Bulletins and instructions on growing oriental poppies and Madonna lilies, and on making and storing sauerkraut were also sent out to Times readers by Mr. Van Gorder.

CORN CROP IS ENDANGERED BY HIGH MOISTURE

Adams county's corn crop is endangered by the high moisture content of most of the grain, members of the board of directors of the Adams County Agricultural Extension association revealed Wednesday evening at a meeting of the board in the court house.

The high moisture content is causing corn spoilage in the crib, the directors said, and as a result large quantities of corn are already moldy and unfit for feeding purposes.

Various attempts to prevent spoilage have been utilized by a number of county farmers, the general discussion revealed.

Some are planning to husk corn from the stalk, a load at a time, in feeding the corn to livestock. Several of the directors pointed out that keeping the corn on the stalk until the moisture content reaches a point where storage is fairly safe is the best possible way of insuring the least amount of damage.

Reason For Damage

Other corn growers are placing boards in the corn crib to permit better circulation of air and thus reduce the chances of mold developing on the corn. Use of a shovel with openings which prevents finer particles from collecting in a mass in the corn crib was also suggested.

Corn growers who have cut the corn and placed the stalks on shocks are finding less trouble with moldy corn, according to reports made at the meeting.

The delay in planting corn at the normal time in the spring due to excessive moisture conditions then, together with heavy frosts in September, were described as important factors in causing the high moisture present in the corn.

Because corn is a basic field crop of major importance, the directors urged every farmer to give special consideration to the corn crop on his own farm at this time.

ELECTED HEAD OF POULTRYMEN

The Pennsylvania State Poultry Federation was organized at State College today, according to an Associated Press dispatch, and Roy H. Heckenluber, Biglerville, was elected first president. The federation absorbs the State Poultry Association which has served the poultry industry in the state for the past 25 years.

The older organization voted to disband at the 25th annual poultry conference at the Pennsylvania State college and join the newly created federation, which will embrace all phases of the poultry industry. The new federation is designed to include cooperatives, hatcherymen, broiler and egg producers, turkey growers and other interests allied with the poultry industry.

Other officers of the federation named include A. H. Seitz, Wrightsville, first vice president; Ralph Minnick, Harrisburg, second vice president, and these directors: Thomas E. Moncrief, Hanover and J. Mark Reisser, Reading, for three year terms; Charles W. Carbeau, Ellwood City and Roscoe Koch, Tamaqua, for two year terms, and Gordon Irons, Linesville and L. E. Keggere, Palmyra, for one year terms.

Directors of the federation will select a secretary later.

WILL DEDICATE NEW 'REC' ANNEX

St. James Lutheran church, of Wexville, will dedicate its new recreational annex Sunday evening, at 8. The annex, 50 by 25 feet, including an auditorium, stage and kitchenette, extends south from the rear of the church. A new oil burner has been installed in the church and adapted for heating both the church and annex.

The total cost of the new building is $5,800. A total of $1,250 in labor and material has been donated. One hundred twenty chairs and other equipment have also been donated. Funds necessary for the cost of the project have been secured.

Dr. H. D. Hoover of the Gettysburg Theological seminary, who served the church for more than three years during the chaplaincy of the pastor, will be the speaker at the dedication service.

The building was erected for social and recreational purposes and also additional Sunday school class rooms.

LIQUOR BOARD WILL UNLOAD ON ODD LOTS

Harrisburg, Oct. 22 (P)—Reduced price tags went on odd lots of liquor and wines in state liquor stores today as the commonwealth's monopoly moved to clear its shelves of $6,000,000 in little known brands bought during the war.

"There have been some reductions in price but the state will suffer no loss as to the cost of these goods," declared Chairman Frederick T. Gelder of the state Liquor Control board, in announcing the move.

"It will lose some potential profit but that is offset by a reserve of $5,000,000 set up by the board in anticipation of the condition that we were sure would result in the purchase based on war conditions."

Gelder stated that the board made a net profit of "in excess of $120,000,000 on $800,000,000 of business in the war years" and that as a result of the present sale of odd lots to reduce inventory "may not make a profit of $2,500,000 on $6,000,000 of close-out items."

Reason for Sale Given

The chairman added that none of the goods, much of it gin, is sub-standard as to quality but is being moved "because there is not an active demand or the vendors are no longer in business or no longer are pushing sales."

He said the over-all inventory already has been reduced from $99,000,000 to $39,000,000 which he added is the lowest point possible if state stores are to be kept stocked properly.

"During the war years, with total curtailment at times and uncertainty as to when releases of grain would be made," Gelder added, "naturally purchases were made that would not have been made if foresight could have been as far seeing as hindsight usually is," he added. "However, we feel gratified that the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board came through the war years in as good a condition as our present inventory proves it to be."

The largest item the board has on hand, he added, was a quantity of gin bought when few vendors could supply it. The commodity moved at the rate of 40,000 cases a month during the war, but when grain was released sales fell off 50 per cent.

"However, the merchandise for the most part represents well-known brands and is selling at the regular price," Gelder stated.

A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, unexplained fatigue, a general run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analyzing the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-venereal nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

BRITAIN BANS U.S. TOBACCOS

London, Oct. 23 (AP)—Britain banned tobacco imports from the United States today and announced new duties on food imports as the government warned that economic collapse would probably mean the end of British democracy.

The new minister of economic affairs, Sir Stafford Cripps, reviewing in the House of Commons Britain's economic crisis, announced at the same time a cut of $800,000,000 a year in government and private expenditures for new homes, new factories, and new plant machinery. He predicted an even deeper austerity for the British people.

Sir Stafford declared Britain would sacrifice some imperial preference in exchange for lower U. S. tariffs. The nation's new economic boss said the British immediately must decide to import less from the United States and export more goods to fend off collapse.

Of our economy and that of Europe should collapse," he said, "our democracy in all probability will collapse too and will disappear, and with it will go the last stronghold of western democratic civilization in Europe.

"Can we discipline ourselves to the task before us or are we going to invite the harsh discipline of events to impose some tragic solution upon us?"

Sir Stafford declared the Labor government expects to balance its overseas accounts by the end of 1948.

AUSTIN REPLIES TO RED ATTACK

Lake Success, Oct. 23 (AP)—The United States today assailed Russia's attempt to curb alleged "warmongers" in this country as a move for "applying shackles" to the minds of the American people.

U. S. delegate Warren R. Austin declared that the Soviet resolution "would put shackles on the brain of man as well as a gag in his mouth." Austin spoke before the 57-member political committee of the United Nations Assembly after Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines had called the Soviet anti-"warmonger" measure a "hydra-headed monster" inspired "by an angry and spiteful motive."

Austin replied to yesterday's attack by Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet chief delegate, against former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes by saying that Vishinsky had given "a grossly distorted idea" of Byrnes' beliefs.

Seven Indicted By Federal Grand Jury

Seranton, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—Seven indictments were handed up to U. S. District Judge Albert W. Watson by the October federal grand jury, including one charging Julius Golinick, Seranton automobile dealer, and his son, Isadore, with fraud against the government.

The Golinicks were accused specifically of "concealing and covering up by trick, scheme and device a material fact" in the purchase of nine meter trucks from the War Assets Administration at the Letterkenny Army Depot, Chambersburg, Pa.

John Frederick Cullen, Jr., former employee at the U. S. Naval Supply Depot, Mechanicsburg, Pa., was indicted on 31 counts of forgery in obtaining approximately $4,500 belonging to the welfare fund committee and civil employes cafeteria at the depot.

In other indictments: Two postal carriers, Donald J. Clay, Carlisle, and Donald Bell Peifer, Harrisburg, were charged with rifling the mails; Glen Corder Hull was charged with escaping from the Lewisburg federal penitentiary, and Chester Lawrence Gasunas was charged with kidnapping George N. Wade in Mansfield, Ohio, and transporting him to Coudersport, Pa., in Wade's own car.

The New Oxford Lions club, meeting at the Cross Keys Diner Wednesday evening, completed plans for the Halloween festivities on October 31. Plans for the annual Christmas party for the children of the community were also discussed and the following committees appointed: treat, H. Alvin Jones and R. H. Cites 3 Routes For Turnpike Extension

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—An aerial survey today showed three apparent choices in the route along which Pennsylvania's turnpike will be extended from Carlisle to Paoli.

The Evening Bulletin reported the Turnpike commission must choose among wooded ridgelines, level farmland or property at or near the base of the ridges.

Wooded ridgelines, the newspaper said would be cheap to acquire but might involve high construction costs, adding that level farmland would be expensive to purchase but would present fewer construction problems.

As for the third alternative, the newspaper said that if roadway is acquired along ridge bases, the turnpike would not run arrow-straight but objections of farmers might be overcome because the land would not be their most valuable.

TRUCE TODAY IN 9-WEEK STRIKE

Galion, O., Oct. 23 (AP)—A nine-week strike, climaxed by a 12-hour siege of the block-long plant of the North Electric Co., came to a strained truce early today and 350 supperless men and women went home.

The struggle over union recognition and 20 per cent wage increase demands, with a possible test of the Taft-Hartley law involved, is to resume Monday in a meeting of officials of the telephone equipment company and the United Automobile Workers (CIO).

But even while an automobile and motorcycle led the procession of cars out of the plant grounds to take the non-striking workers to their homes, under a union promise of safe conduct, company officials announced that they had agreed to nothing more than a "meeting."

"We have not agree to arbitrate," said Robert Jamison, company counsel, after a night marked by sporadic rock throwing and window breaking, rumors that hundreds of sympathizers were coming in from other cities, talk of reading the riot act, and erroneous reports that the strikers themselves were preparing to force their way into the big factory. One pistol shot was reported fired during the evening.

The company policy had been to refuse to negotiate until all UAW-CIO officers had signed a non-Communist affidavit required by the Taft-Hartley act. However, this was amended late yesterday to a flat refusal because of alleged acts of vandalism at the company's nearby Kenton plant, and also because of developments here during the afternoon and night, Jamison said.

STATE'S FARM WAGES RISING

Harrisburg, Oct. 23 (AP)—Farm wages continue to rise in Pennsylvania and the State Department of Agriculture said it can foresee no indication of when they will stop.

"These wage advances" said Miles Horst, State Secretary of Agriculture, "reflect in part the increased cost of farming and the production of food."

A Federal-State survey made for the Department showed that the average pay for farm workers as of October 1, was $5.80 per day and $117 per month without board; $4.80 per day and $81 per month with board.

These wages represent a 40 cents per day increase during the past year for workers without board, and 30 cents per day for those who received board.

"Skilled farm workers are scarce," said Horst.

"Farm operators must compete with higher-paying industries if they are to get their harvesting and other work done on time and prevent waste when foods are so necessary."

Drowning Given As Cause Of Death

Lake George, N. Y., Oct. 23 (AP)—New York city's chief medical examiner found that Reva Reznick died of drowning, not of injuries, a grand jury investigating the death of the 23-year-old New York nurse, disclosed today.

The jury released a report by Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales on a second autopsy which the medical examiner said "completely confirms the original autopsy" performed by the Warren county pathologist.

The nurse's bruised body was found Aug. 1 off a Lake George beach near the hotel where she had been vacationing. Her death, which followed a party, was certified as accidental at a coroner's inquest.

District Attorney J. Clarence Herlihy asked Dr. Gonzales to examine the exhumed body after a Pittsburgh pathologist, called in by the Reznick family, had commented on "multiple contusions."

KILLED ON RAT HUNT

Pittsburgh, Oct. 25 (AP)—A boy's rat-hunting expedition to a dump ended in the killing of Walter Cielwicz, 16, of Millin township, with a small caliber rifle last night. Detectives said the boy was accidentally shot while handing his rifle to a companion unversed in handling firearms.

Would Open Cave To Examine Body

Pueblo, Colo., Oct. 23 (AP)—Byron W. Vannest sought help from friends today in his attempt to reopen a limestone cavern to check whether a body buried there is that of his 17-year-old son Kenneth.

Vannest, after probing south of the cavern four hours yesterday, said, "I don't know whether we will be able to reach the body without blasting or not."

He said he hoped to reach the body within a week, providing he could obtain volunteer workers and donations to finance the project.

Kenneth Vannest disappeared last March. Some of his personal effects were found near the cave and a body found wedged in a narrow passage about 50 feet from the entrance.

Authorities ordered the cave sealed when it was estimated the cost of removal of the body would approach $30,000. Vannest and his wife consented and funeral services were conducted at the site for their son. Later they became convinced the description of the body given them did not tally with that of Kenneth and decided to attempt to reach the body.

103 Voters Candidates In French Town of 180

Cordon, France, Oct. 23 (AP)—Candidates for the village council in this little town in Upper Savoy are campaigning feverishly for Sunday's runoff elections.

Only two of the candidates for 14 seats on the council got the required majority last Sunday. Next Sunday's balloting requires only a plurality for election.

It was a little difficult to get a majority last week because 103 of the village's 180 voting residents were candidates.

Iraq previously was known as Mesopotamia.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

"Take Pen in Hand"

This column has been running for so long that its readers, in towns like ours all over the country, are beginning to "take pen in hand" and write us what they think.

Some of them take me over the coals for what I say—like the column I ran on planting alfalfa. Others write, "I liked your column yesterday, but..." All of them have different points of view.

From where I sit, that's the way it should be. Everybody's entitled to an opinion—and it's those very differences, and friendly criticism,

BHS GRIDDERS FACE TROJANS THIS SATURDAY

What is expected to be the toughest assignment on the remainder of the schedule faces the Gettysburg high school football team when it meets Chambersburg high on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The Trojans, losers only to Hanover 13-6 in South Penn competition, have a big strong team. Coach Bob Beard's outfit has plenty of power, speed and deception. Bill Kane, Trojan speedster, has tallied four touchdowns in league play to make him one of the leading scorers in the circuit.

Both good and bad news emanated from the Maroon camp this week. On the bright side was the return of Bruce Wegerdahl, end, and Bill Bucher, center, who were out of the starting lineup last week against Shipensburg due to illness. Offsetting this is the possible loss of Guy Donaldson, end, and heaviest man on the Maroon line, who suffered an attack of grip this week.

May After Defense
Coach George Forney has been tinkering with several new defense combinations this week in an effort to halt the high-powered Trojan attack.

Experiments during drills indicated the Maroon coaches may use Wegerdahl in backing up the line while Bucher may be given a trial at guard. There is also the possibility that Bob Horle, fullback, may be shifted to the line on defense.

The new formations were tried out during an intra-squad scrimmage Tuesday when the entire squad received a long workout.

No change is anticipated in the Maroon starting lineup. Victorious in their last two starts and definitely an improved team over previous performances, the Maroons concede nothing to the favored Chambersburg club and are hoping to make it three wins in a row.

Carlisle high's unbeaten team will be host to Hershey and Mechanicsburg plays at Waynesboro in other South Penn this Friday night.

In non-conference games the leading Hanover high team is host to Columbia Friday night while Shipensburg entertains Scotland Saturday afternoon.

WOLVERINES TO MEET GOPHERS

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 23 (AP)—A Michigan football juggernaut that hasn't really been tested in four runaway victories this season, will be at top strength for Saturday's "Little Brown Jug" clash with Minnesota—just in case.

Few who saw the Gophers tumble in a 40 to 13 licking last week at the hands of Illinois believe that Minnesota has the depth to press the Michigan Steamroller, but the Wolverines won't be caught napping, midway of their drive for an undisputed big nine title—something they haven't won since Herbert O. Fritz Crisler first came to Michigan as head coach in 1932.

Three-deep in talented material at every backfield post, Michigan has powered its way to 223 points in its four topheavy triumphs over Michigan State, Stanford, Pitt and Northwestern, scoring no fewer than 59 points any time out, yet.

The Gophers are hoping for more football-like weather here than they had last week at Champaign when the big Minnesota forward wall stifled in the heat of the last half against Illinois after Perry Moss had passed them dizz in the first two periods.

Even with Illinois waiting next week, Michigan will turn all its guns against the Gophers—if it needs them.

Bullet X-Country Team Nips Albright

The Gettysburg college cross-country team, coached by Roy Bloomingdale, defeated Albright 28-29 in opening the season on Wednesday afternoon.

The time for the three-mile course was 17:07 minutes. In cross-country runs the low score wins, points being given on how each man finishes. Albright, finished first. The remaining finishers were as follows: 2. Smith, Gettysburg; 3. Langford, Albright; 4. Merry, Gettysburg; 5. Hoos, Gettysburg; 6. Yost, Gettysburg; 7. Sheffer, Albright; 8. Reeves, Albright; 9. Ayres, Gettysburg; 10. Whitman, Albright.

Temple And Bucknell Battle For 'Old Shoe'

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—Temple University and Bucknell will battle for "The Old Shoe" in their football meeting at Lewisburg, Pa., Saturday.

The "Old Shoe" was placed in competition in 1945, the brain child of Dr. Gerald Timmons, now dean of the Temple school of dentistry. Temple won the trophy that year, with a 64 to 0 triumph and won possession again last season, 27 to 6. Saturday will be the first time Bucknell has had a chance to try for the trophy on its home field and the Bison are in high hopes that they'll be able to spring an upset.

Phineas Davis Junior High Here Friday; Stands Arrive

A large crowd is expected to be on hand when the Gettysburg junior high football team makes its first home appearance in meeting Phineas Davis junior high of York on the high school athletic field Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Last week the locals gained a 12-0 victory over Waynesboro junior high at Waynesboro in their initial game.

There will be plenty of seats available to fans for Friday's contest due to the arrival of the long awaited bleachers. The new stands, which seat 1,200, will do much to alleviate the over-taxed seating capacity which has prevailed on the Maroons' field for many years.

One Lineup Change
One change will be made in the local's lineup as the result of Fred Strickhouser, tackle, being freed out of action for the season when he suffered a dislocated shoulder at Waynesboro last Friday night. Wilmer Dietrick has been nominated by Coach Dick Folkenroth and Don Ulrich to fill Strickhouser's old post.

The remainder of the lineup will be intact, and will include Ford and Cleveland, ends; Becker, tackle; Redding and Davis, guards; Allard.

BULLET FROSH FACE TERRORS THIS FRIDAY

Gettysburg college's freshman football team, the first since pre-war days, will inaugurate a four-game schedule Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when it clashes with the Western Maryland freshmen at Westminster.

Coach Roy Bloomingdale and his assistant, "Ox" Emanuel, are well pleased with the showing of their charges to date and look forward to a successful campaign. Last year Bloomingdale piloted the Bullet junior varsity to an undefeated season.

The Bullet starting line will average slightly better than 192 pounds while the backfield will average 173. A second backfield, which has been used as a unit, averages 183.

Listed as starters in the backfield are Dick Beaver, 160, quarterback; Bill Swope, 185, left half, and Jack Jones, 178, fullback, both triple threat men, and Dwight Speaker, 150, right half, a speedy and shifty ball totter.

In his second backfield Coach Bloomingdale has been using Ronnie Fitzkee, 175, quarterback; Ray Shearer, 185, left half, and Don Young, 180, fullback, another pair of triple threat lads, and Tom Falkner, 190, right half.

OHIO GELDING IS SHOW WINNER

Harrisburg, Oct. 23 (AP)—Sun Beau, a nine-year-old chestnut gelding with winged heels, out-jumped a field of 31 of the nation's top jumpers to win the open jump class at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show.

The powerful gelding, owned by Sterling Smith, of Ravenna, Ohio, completed the standard four-foot jumps in a tie with six other horses last night, and then went on after the standards were raised to sweep the event.

The single roadster class, favorite of county fairs, gave the judges a difficult time with several top-flight entries, but Scotch Belle, of Blythwood farms, Cleveland, Tenn., finally gained the nod.

Kitty O'Shea, of Ford Acres farm, Canton, Ohio, won the $250 three-gaited saddle horse stake with Gay Dawn's Mite, owned by Mary F. Abel, of Hackensack, N. J., taking second honors.

Beating down sharp competition, Nancy Hazlewood, owned by Harold Schoell, of Easton, won the $250 five-gaited saddle horse stake but was pressed closely by Sheer Genius, of Ward Acres farm, New Richfield, N. Y., who was awarded second place.

A total entry list of 412 horses, among whom are represented at least 12 holders of 1947 championship titles, are competing in the five-day show which closes Saturday with the selection of the grand champions in the various classes.

DELAWARE HOST TO BULLET 11 AT WILMINGTON

Coach "Hen" Bream and his Gettysburg college football squad will leave Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for Wilmington, Delaware, where the Bullets will meet the University of Delaware Saturday afternoon.

It was announced today that Ross Sachs, former Gettysburg high star, who has been hampered with a leg, will be in the lineup.

Admission prices will be 25c and 50c.

injury all season, has decided to drop football for this year and will concentrate on rounding into shape for basketball. Sachs plans to resume his football career during next year's spring practice.

The Bullets anticipate one of the stiffer games of the season in their engagement with the Blue Hens. After winning their opener with Penn Military college to extend their streak to 32 games without defeat, the Hens suffered setbacks at the hands of Maryland and Bucknell, which is expected to make them doubly troublesome.

Plenty of Vets

Bill Murray has 18 lettersmen at Delaware with 28 other players with varsity experience. Last year Delaware upset the Bullets here 27-6.

The Bream-men came out of last Saturday's tussle with Lehigh in good physical condition and Coach Bream has announced that he expects to make no change in the lineup.

En route to Wilmington the squad will stop in Coatesville for dinner Friday evening at the YMCA. Following the dinner the squad will continue to Wilmington where it will be quartered Friday night. After the game in the Wilmington ball park Saturday afternoon the squad will return to Coatesville for dinner before returning here.

With Bill Meyer, a great hand with young players, taking over at Pittsburgh, there will be more pink slips handed out by General Manager Roy Hamey, Jim Bagby, the former Boston Red Sox and Cleveland hurler, already has been sent to Indianapolis by the Pirates and Rip Sewell has been retired and becomes a pitching coach.

More Vets Going

Hank Greenberg is no longer a Pirate. Free to shop for a connection, Hank is considering an operation for removal of bone chips from his elbow. The Pirates also sent Roger Wolff, the knuckle ball expert, to Sacramento in payment for a young catcher.

The New York Giants, who revitalized their roster with the additions of Jack Lohrke, Bob Thomson and Larry Jansen last winter, have cut loose an old familiar hand, Catcher Ernie Lombardi. The Phillies, banking heavily on young talent from the minors, handed out a release to Skeeter Newcome, veteran shortstop.

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Penn varsity is hard at work on measures to combat the Navy offense Saturday with Henry Injail impersonating Bill Hawkin, middle fullback.

The squad was sent through a long scrimmage yesterday against the type of defense they expect to meet on Franklin Field this weekend.

London, Oct. 23 (AP)—European Heavyweight Champion, Bruce Woodcock's return to the ring, scheduled for November 17, probably will be postponed until December 9 because of an eye injury. Promoter Jack Solomons said today.

Woodcock got a piece of grit in one of his eyes this week while working in a quarry and it became inflamed. He will come to London from Doncaster this week-end to see an eye specialist. Bruce has been idle since losing to the American, Joe Bakst, on April 15.

Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—Coach Bill Kern prepared to send his University of West Virginia football team through a final brick workout here today for the team's important tussle with Penn State at State College, Pa., on Saturday.

The Mountaineers will leave by bus Friday and go through a light rehearsal at State College in the afternoon. The squad will spend the night at Bellefonte.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—Coach Zack Taylor has been released unconditionally by the Pittsburgh Pirates in one of a series of reorganization moves for next season.

Announcement of Taylor's release, after one year's service, was made yesterday by General Manager Roy Hamey who also revealed that Billpen Catcher Johnny McKee has been released unconditionally.

The Gettysburg college women's field hockey team lost a hard fought 3-2 decision to Millersville State Teachers' college here Wednesday afternoon.

A last minute goal by Miss Lanning gave the visitors the decision. Shirley Thomas and Ada Parker scored goals for the locals. Miss Lanning tabbed all of the points for her team.

Pro Grid Marks

MAY BE TUMBLER

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—One game past the halfway mark on its 59-game schedule, the all-American Football Conference today set its sights on a haul of new all-time pro records.

A survey of statistics for 29 games shows the circuit stands a good chance of surpassing marks, more than a few of the existing marks. The league's teams already have an average of 45.7 points a game, compared with last year's major league record of 39.5.

Seventy-eight touchdowns have come through the air, indicating that last year's all-pro mark of 133 is within easy reach. Another 179 have been made by running in contrast to the league record of 296 for 1936.

The first six scorers all have a good chance of topping Lou Groza's A.A.P.C. high of 44—all by place-kicks—for the 1946 inaugural season. Chet Murrin of Buffalo has 49, Spec Sanders of New York 48, Groza 47, Marlon Motley of Cleveland 42, Ray Ramsey of Chicago 42 and Ben Agajanian of Los Angeles 40.

Passers have averaged 283.1 yards a game, compared with last year's 262.2 on an average of 40.6 attempts to 40.3 per game.

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—Babe Ruth has been chosen to receive the 1947 Brith Shalom national sports award in recognition of his outstanding contribution to American youth through his exemplary sportsmanship, fair play and notable achievements in the field of sports.

Brith Shalom, a national Jewish fraternal order, said the award will be presented to the former king of sports.

The award previously was given to Capt. Tom Hamilton, Navy football coach, and Lawson Robertson, former University of Pennsylvania track coach.

QUAKERS, STATE, DELAWARE ON FAVORITE LIST

By HERB ALTSCHULL

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—Like old Swarth's immortal words when it tackled Notre Dame, "We showed up" today for the season's most fearsome week for pigskin pickers and with a fahering pair of balloons predicted that Penn and Penn State would continue their unbeaten strings against stiff opposition.

Last week's 20-10 mark (one tie) was the poorest of the season and set us back to a 694 mark but two of the decisions were one-pointers and we're counting on fewer games to be decided by the margin of points after touchdowns this week.

Here's a glance over the Keystone state's topnotchers:

Navy vs. Penn—Much of the outcome of this game hinges on Chuck Bednarik's recovery of a chest injury. If Bednarik is in top shape, Penn should be able to halt the Navy attack. If not, we may find an extra point margin here. Nevertheless Penn has the stuff and should win.

Both Unbeaten

West Virginia vs. Penn State—Here's the acid test for Bob Higgins' Nittany Lions, and while the Mountaineers are unbeaten and have a lot of scoring power, they don't have the lion strength. A more confident vote for State.

Villanova vs. Boston College (Friday)—The Eagles lost a tight one last week and Villanova won by an equally close margin. That gives B.C. the psychological nod and probably the victory.

Duquesne vs. Detroit (Friday)—The traveling Ducks will find Detroit on the rebound. Detroit.

Dickinson vs. Franklin and Marshall—A battle between unbeaten but tied teams. A strong vote for F. and M.

Lafayette vs. Washington and Jefferson—Dan Towler can do a lot of scoring, but the Lafayette Leopards appear to have found it. self, Downing and Stanczak to shade the Presidents.

West Chester vs. East Stroudsburg—The key game for the West Chester Rams in their quest for state

The powerful gelding, owned by Sterling Smith, of Ravenna, Ohio, completed the standard four-foot jumps in a tie with six other horses last night, and then went on after the standards were raised to sweep the event.

The single roadster class, favorite of county fairs, gave the judges a difficult time with several top-flight entries, but Scotch Belle, of Blythwood farms, Cleveland, Tenn., finally gained the nod.

Kitty O'Shea, of Ford Acres farm, Canton, Ohio, won the $250 three-gaited saddle horse stake with Gay Dawn's Mite, owned by Mary F. Abeel, of Hackensack, N. J., taking second honors.

Beating down sharp competition, Nancy Hazlewood, owned by Harold Scholl, of Easton, won the $250 five-gaited saddle horse stake but was pressed closely by Sheer Genius, of Ward Acres farms, New Richelle, N. Y., who was awarded second place.

A total entry list of 412 horses, among whom are represented at least 12 holders of 1947 championship titles, are competing in the five-day show which closes Saturday with the selection of the grand champions in the various classes.

DELAWARE HOST TO BULLET 11 AT WILMINGTON

Coach "Hen" Bream and his Gettysburg college football squad will leave Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for Wilmington, Delaware, where the Bullets will meet the University of Delaware Saturday afternoon.

It was announced today that Ross Sachs, former Gettysburg high star, who has been hampered with a leg injury all season, has decided to drop football for this year and will concentrate on rounding into shape for basketball. Sachs plans to resume his football career during next year's spring practice.

The Bullets anticipate one of the stiffest games of the season in their engagement with the Blue Hens. After winning their opener with Penn Military college to extend their streak to 32 games without defeat, the Hens suffered setbacks at the hands of Maryland and Bucknell which is expected to make them doubly troublesome.

Plenty of Vets

Bill Murray has 18 lettersman at Delaware with 28 other players with varsity experience. Last year Delaware upset the Bullets here 27-6.

The Bream-men came out of last Saturday's tussle with Lehigh in good physical condition and Coach Bream has announced that he expects to make no change in the lineup.

En route to Wilmington the squad will stop in Coatesville for dinner Friday evening at the YMCA. Following the dinner the squad will continue to Wilmington where it will be quartered Friday night. After the game in the Wilmington ball slips handed out by General Manager Roy Hamey, Jim Bagby, the former Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Hurler, already has been sent to Indianapolis by the Pirates and Rip Sewell has been retired and becomes a pitching coach.

With Bill Meyer, a great hand with young players, taking over at Pittsburgh, there will be more pink slips handed out by General Manager Roy Hamey, Jim Bagby, the former Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Hurler, already has been sent to Indianapolis by the Pirates and Rip Sewell has been retired and becomes a pitching coach.

More Vets Going

Hank Greenberg is no longer a Pirate. Free to shop for a connection, Hank is considering an operation for removal of bone chips from his elbow. The Pirates also sent Roger Wolff, the knuckle ball expert, to Sacramento in payment for a young catcher.

The New York Giants, who revitalized their roster with the additions of Jack Lohrke, Bob Thomson and Larry Jansen last winter, have cut loose an old familiar hand, Catcher Ernie Lombardi. The Phillies, banking heavily on young talent from the minors, handed out a release to Skeeter Newcome, veteran shortstop.

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Penn varsity is hard at work on measures to combat the Navy offense Saturday with Henry Injaian impersonating Bill Hawkin, middle fullback.

The squad was sent through a long scrimmage yesterday against the type of defense they expect to meet on Franklin Field this weekend.

London, Oct. 22 (AP)—European Heavyweight Champion Bruce Woodcock's return to the ring, scheduled for November 17, probably will be postponed until December 9 because of an eye injury. Promoter Jack Solomons said today.

Woodcock got a piece of grit in one of his eyes this week while working in a quarry and it became inflamed. He will come to London from Doncaster this week-end to see an eye specialist. Bruce has been idle since losing to the American, Joe Baksi, on April 15.

Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 23 (AP)—Coach Bill Kern prepared to send his University of West Virginia football team today for a final brisk workout here today for the team's important tussle with Penn State at State College, Pa., on Saturday.

The Mountaineers will leave by bus Friday and go through a light rehearsal at State College in the afternoon. The squad will spend the night at Bellefonte.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—Coach Zack Taylor has been released unconditionally by the Pittsburgh Pirates in one of a series of reorganization moves for next season.

Announcement of Taylor's release, after one year's service, was made yesterday by General Manager Roy Hamey who also revealed that Billpen Catcher Johnny McKee has been released unconditionally.

Local Field Hockey Team Defeated 3-2

The Gettysburg college women's field hockey team lost a hard fought 3-2 decision to Millersville State Teachers' college here Wednesday afternoon.

A last minute goal by Miss Lanning gave the visitors the decision. Shirley Thomas and Ada Parker scored goals for the locals. Miss Lanning tabbed all of the points for her team.

PRO GRID MARKS MAY BE TUMBLING

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—One game past the halfway mark on its 56-game schedule, the all-America Football Conference today set its sights on a hatful of new all-time pro records.

A survey of statistics for 29 games shows the circuit stands a good chance of surpassing more than a few of the existing marks. The league's teams already have an average of 45.7 points a game, compared with last year's major league record of 39.5.

Seventy-eight touchdowns have come through the air, indicating that last year's all-pro mark of 133 is within easy reach. Another 179 have been made by running in contrast to the league record of 296 for 1946.

The first six scorers all have a good chance of topping Lou Groza's AAFC high of 84—all by place-kicks—for the 1946 inaugural season. Chet Mutyryn of Buffalo has 49, Spec Sanders of New York 48, Groza 47, Marion Motley of Cleveland 42, Ray Ramsey of Chicago 42 and Ben Agajanian of Los Angeles 40.

Passers have averaged 298.1 yards a game, compared with last year's 269.2 on an average of 40.6 attempts to 40.3 per game.

The award previously was given to Capt. Tom Hamilton, Navy football coach, and Lawson Robertson, former University of Pennsylvania track coach.

QUAKERS, STATE, DELAWARE ON FAVORITE LIST

By HERB ALTSCHULL

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—Like old Siwash's immortal words when it tackled Notre Dame, "We showed up" today for the season's most fearsome week for pigskin pickers and with a faltering pair of ballots predicted that Penn and Penn State would continue their unbeaten strings against stiff opposition.

Last week's 20-10 mark (one tie) was the poorest of the season and set us back to a 694 mark but two of the decisions were one-pointers and we're counting on fewer games to be decided by the margin of points after touchdowns this week.

Here's a glance over the Keystone state's topnotchers:

Navy vs. Penn—Much of the outcome of this game hinges on Chuck Bednarik's recovery of a chest injury. If Bednarik is in top shape, Penn should be able to halt the Navy attack. If not, we may find an extra point margin here. Nevertheless Penn has the stuff and should win.

Both Unbeaten

West Virginia vs. Penn State—Here's the acid test for Bob Higgins' Nittany Lions, and while the Mountaineers are unbeaten and have a lot of scoring power, they don't have the Lion strength. A more confident vote for State.

Villanova vs. Boston College (Friday)—The Eagles lost a tight one last week and Villanova won by an equally close margin. That gives B.C. the psychological nod and probably the victory.

Duquesne vs. Detroit (Friday)—The traveling Dukes will find Detroit on the rebound. Detroit.

Dickinson vs. Franklin and Marshall—A battle between unbeaten but tied teams. A strong vote for F. and M.

Lafayette vs. Washington and Jefferson—Dan Towler can do a lot of scoring, but the Lafayette Leopards appears to have found itself. Downing and Stanczak to shade the Presidents.

West Chester vs. East Stroudsburg—The key game for the West Chester Rams in their quest for state tutor laurels. They should win.

Shippensburg vs. Bloomsburg—The coin goes a-spinning. Bloomsburg.

Lehigh vs. Rutgers—Middle three competition gets under way. Rutgers has the punch, Lehigh the defense.

Laborer Is Given Damages Of $15,000

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—Aloysius L. Richards, 34-year-old laborer of Altoona, Pa., has been awarded $15,000 damages against the Pennsylvania railroad in U. S. District Court here in a $100,000 suit charging he was afflicted with lead poisoning while working in the railroad's paint shops at Altoona.

Richards, father of three children, testified yesterday the poison entered his body from paint spray guns.

The railroad contended it had furnished all necessary safety measures.

Can Cause Crashes

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 23 (AP)—Burnt toast at breakfast, says a safety group official, may cause many an automobile accident.

"You would be surprised," said Asher Frank, director of the Florida Safety Council, "to learn of the number of accidents caused by bad cooking such as the eggs being burned, coffee not good, bacon not crisp, and burnt toast."

"We have found men who had accidents due to these causes, for instead of having their minds on driving they were thinking of the poor breakfast they had."

London, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Edinburgh Regional office of the National Coal board said today that a wildcat coal strike in Scotland has spread to 93 mines, employing 24,890 miners and stopping production of nearly 40,000 tons of coal a day.

The strike began Monday in an effort by the miners to force a speedup in negotiations for a wage increase.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
WILD NATURE

There are stimulation and inspiration in the wild things of Nature. The life and habits of flowers and animals are studies that no textbook can surpass. There they are in all their wildness and perfection. Nothing superficial, nothing false.

A friend of mine told me that when he got all fussed up and confused, he walked to a forest less than an hour's walk from his house, and there gained his equilibrium. I believe that many have done this same thing. There is something fatherly and friendly about the forest and all that it contains. Its silence—and then its music, and its fragrance. Every footstep is an adventure and a revelation.

I can understand why it was that John Muir could go into the forests and mountains of California and stay there alone for months at a time. For, while he was alone in himself, he actually was never alone. All about him were interests and friendly voices. In one of his most beautiful essays he tells of the water-ouzel, which inhabits mostly the lovely waterfalls, and he makes note of the fact that this bird gave him great joy and cheered him in his lonely wanderings. During both winter and summer the joyous song of this bird gives forth, neither storm nor cold damping its energetic little body. Said Muir: "No need of spring sunshine to thaw his song, for it never freezes."

All the songs of birds that you hear in nature are unrehearsed. They are all outbursts of inward joy, and they seem to want all the rest of the world to know how happy they are. And how quickly all birds and animals scent friendliness, so that they may show their kinship.

There is continual freshness in nature that is a challenge to the disbeliever, who looks upon life as just something to be lived out, and then abandoned, as one would a camp in the woods. We are ageless with Nature, and happy only when blended to her moods.

Wild Nature is even extravagant, and often wasteful, but she makes up for all this by her abundance. So far man, beast and bird are her fruitful acreages, with an invitation for each to feast upon her lavish gifts!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Wipe Out Waste."

WEALTH AND FAME

Wealth has ways of disappearing. Leaving only vain regrets. Favorites the throngs were cheering. All too quickly fame forgets.

Wealth not always is enduring. Fame seeks champions new to cheer. Names are all that it's procuring. For the records of the year.

Best today, and then defeated. Up, and later on to fall. Year by year the act repeated; Name and date—and that is all.

These the victories unrecorded. Lasting till the journey ends: Worth, by love and pride rewarded. Happy hearth and faithful friends.

ITES DANGERS
FRONTING NEW
PARIS CABINET

Paris, Oct. 22 (AP)—Premier Paul Ramadier said today his newly assembled cabinet had found it necessary to consult the parliament concerning the "danger of the regime" which he said was inherent in the Communist and De Gaulleist regimes.

The government yesterday called parliament to a session starting Tuesday, though it had not been scheduled to end its summer session until November 13.

Ramadier told a news conference by the political "climate of France, which has suffered too long, charged with electricity. Nerves on edge."

Cites Dividing Forces
In this situation, he said, Ramadier's cabinet is "being transformed" into a "government of political movements." He added, "The objective of these movements is the collapse of French authority and the halting of French production."

On the other hand, he said, there is another diametrically opposed political agitation which is aimed at overthrowing the political institutions with which the people are endowed themselves.

The premier, who yesterday purged his coalition cabinet of ministers suspected of having leanings toward Charles De Gaulle, said both the forces are "attacking the regime at the very moment when it is needed."

Cabinet Reduced
That is the danger the government must face," he declared. "In this grave moment, the government feels it must consult parliament."

De Gaulle has criticized the constitution of the Fourth French Republic, adopted by referendum October 13, 1946, on the ground that it gives too much power to the legislature and too little to the executive.

In a new list of ministers presented to President Vincent Auriol shortly after midnight, Ramadier trimmed the cabinet from 25 members—12 Socialists, six Popular Republicans, five Radical Socialists and two Independents—to 13—seven Socialists, three Popular Republicans and three Radical Socialists and one Independent.

Concentrated Power
The premier, who has been under heavy pressure from both the right and the left—De Gaulle's victory in Sunday's municipal elections and labor's demand for a 37 per cent increase in minimum wage—said the streamlining was undertaken because:

"We realized that it was necessary at this hour to give the government the possibility of rapid decision and to this end to concentrate authority in a smaller number of hands."

Ramadier's cabinet called the assembly back from vacation yesterday just before the premier requested the resignations of all his ministers. He did not resign himself.

The deputies, when they return Tuesday will have before them nearly complete results of the municipal elections, in which De Gaulle's triumph caused a revision of considerable political thinking in France.

BRITAIN SETS
WITHDRAWAL

London, Oct. 22 (AP)—Britain plans to withdraw her troops and administration from Palestine by March of 1949 "at the very latest" if the United Nations fails to settle the Holy Land problem, an authoritative informant said today.

Britain a week ago served a second notice on the United Nations that she would give up her League of Nations mandate in the Holy Land, but set no date for withdrawal. The British announcement had said merely that the withdrawal would occur "within a limited period."

Britain urged the U.N. not to delay "unduly" in reaching a final decision of the future of Palestine. British sources in New York said discussions already were underway in London and Jerusalem on the withdrawal and that a target date was to be announced.

Seek To Avert Chaos
A government source in touch with top-level British policy makers said Britain's plans to withdraw would not "prejudice the pledge given to the United Nations by Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech-Jones that Britain will be ready to play its part in implementing any settlement acceptable to both Jews and Arabs."

It was disclosed, meanwhile, that Gen. Sir Alan Gordon Cunningham, British high commissioner in Palestine, had begun a tour of small towns and settlements in the Holy Land in an attempt to impress upon the people the seriousness of Britain's intentions to withdraw.

Cunningham, a government source said, was appealing directly to the people to "get together" in order to "avoid chaos" when the British leave.

OCTOBER HEAT

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—This city recorded its hottest October 22 yesterday—85 degrees. The figure broke the previous record, 84, set in 1900.

Will Ration Gas
As Fuel Oil Aid

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—Gasoline will be rationed to service stations under an agreement reached by Eastern refiners as a means of stepping up production of fuel oil for home and commercial use and to avert a shortage, says Lionel Jacobs, chairman of the Atlantic Coast Oil conference.

Jacobs said last night there probably will be a "slight justified increase" in the price of fuel oil in the near future.

STATE'S LABOR RELATIONS BD.
IS BOLSTERED

Harrisburg, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Labor Relations board said today its authority over labor disputes originating in Pennsylvania has been "much strengthened" by provisions of the new Taft-Hartley labor law.

The board made the announcement after reviewing both the new federal law, which became effective August 22, and a recent decision of the State Supreme Court which held that under the new Taft-Hartley law the state agency lacked jurisdiction over disputes involving interstate commerce.

Concurrent Jurisdiction
"The Taft-Hartley law, in our opinion," declared Malcolm B. Petrini, a member of the state board, "gives state agencies concurrent jurisdiction over even employers engaged in interstate commerce, except those involving mining, manufacturing, communications and transportation with the exception of where they are predominantly local in character."

"We feel that on all cases that now come before the board, with those exceptions, the state board, has concurrent jurisdiction and that our position is much stronger under the Taft-Hartley law than it was under our own law."

Petrini added that as to cases which came before the state board before August 22, the effective date of the Taft-Hartley law, where the jurisdictional issue was raised, the board would be bound by the State Supreme Court decision.

Ruled In Pittsburgh Case
The high tribunal had ruled on an appeal of the Pittsburgh railways company that the board lacked authority under the Wagner act to name Local 95 of the International Union of Operating Engineers as the bargaining agent of substation operators of the Pittsburgh concern.

"Wherever the employer-employee relationship is one over which Congress has the power of regulation and with regard to which Congress has acted, state power is suspended and cannot constitutionally be exercised," the court stated.

Petrini, however, explained that Congress in the Taft-Hartley act "has given state boards concurrent jurisdiction" over wide areas of labor relations.

Oldest Woman To Be
Centennial Queen

Harrisburg, Ill., Oct. 23 (AP)—Old age will take the spotlight from Saline county's young women when a "queen" and her attendants are selected to reign over closing ceremonies of the county's centennial celebration this week-end.

A Mrs. or Miss Saline County will be chosen Saturday, solely on the basis of age, from among the county's oldest women who enter the contest. The oldest woman will be named queen and her attendants will be the next four women in point of age.

The queen will be selected at special ceremonies honoring all Saline county natives over 80—and there are 125 of them.

Another event scheduled Saturday is the marriage of two Eldorado Township high school students by the Rev. Robert Dawson, Saline county's oldest minister. He will be 101 next Sunday.

NEED DIAGNOSIS OF SOCIAL ILLS

Harrisburg, Oct. 23 (AP)—Dr. Edward L. Bortz, president of the American Medical Association, says the medical profession should "exercise energetic leadership" in diagnosing social ills to bring about "a more stable social order, in local communities and the nation."

Dr. Bortz, in an address last night to the post graduate assembly of the Harrisburg Academy of Medicine, said that recent knowledge gained "in the realm of psychiatric disorders and emotional disturbances" was important "since more than 50 per cent of hospital beds are occupied by patients suffering from the result of emotional turmoil and mental collapse."

Dr. Bortz, associate professor of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, Philadelphia, said "the rapid advance in the various fields of medical science during the past 50 years brought about a spectacular increase in the average life span."

He added, however, that on the other hand science has created a social weapon which "offer the possibility of destroying human civilization."

IRAN CONGRESS
VOIDS RUSSIAN
OIL AGREEMENT

Tehran, Iran, Oct. 23 (AP)—Premier Ahmed Qavam's oil agreement with the Russians was a dead letter today, voided by the Iranian Majlis (Parliament).

Over Qavam's protest, parliament yesterday passed, 102 to two, a resolution nullifying the understanding the premier reached with Soviet ambassador Ivan Sadchikov in April, 1946.

Orders Exploration
Under this agreement, the Soviet Union would have been allowed to explore five northern Iranian provinces—including Azerbaijan—for oil to be exploited by a Russian-Iranian company whose control would have been 51 per cent Soviet the first 25 years and 50 per cent the next 25 and whose profits would have been split 50-50.

In knocking this out, parliament instructed the government to undertake oil exploration of the north through its own agencies and, in the event petroleum was found, then to discuss its sale to the Soviet Union.

In addition, the Majlis called upon the government to begin talks with the Anglo-Iranian Oil company, partly owned by Britain, with a view to boosting Iran's share of profits from oil fields in the south.

Forbidden By Law
In discussing the resolution to reject the deal with Russia before the vote was taken, Qavam said it was "not to Iran's advantage and we must not deal with the problem in haste." He added that "we are friends of Russia no matter what happens."

"We hope to have good political and economic relations with Russia in the future," he said.

The resolution said Iranian law forbade the country to grant oil concessions to foreigners or to take foreigners as partners in an oil exploitation agreement.

SEEKS CHANGE IN BAR RULES

Harrisburg, Oct. 23 (AP)—Attorney General T. McKenney Chidsey received a request today from the general assembly's Joint State Government Commission that he determine whether the state constitution permits legislation on the question of local eligibility rules for attorneys.

Under present eligibility rules in effect in some Pennsylvania counties an attorney cannot practice in the county unless he has lived in that particular county from five to seven years.

Sen. John M. Walker (R-Allegheny), a member of the commission, said the request was made to Chidsey as a step toward getting the matter into the open at the next session of the legislature.

"I feel very strongly on this," said Walker. "I think it just as Un-American to have such residence rules as it is to desecrate the American flag."

Walker said he referred to the present regulation of some county bar associations which would require that a veteran, or any other attorney, establish a residence in the county for a period of years before he could practice law in that county.

Rep. David P. Reese (R-Dauphin), chairman of the commission's subcommittee on uniform practices said bar association rules were "up to the court" and outside the province of the legislature.

Girl, 14, Brutally
Beaten In Bedroom

Norristown, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—An intruder early today brutally beat a 14-year-old girl in her bedroom. Peggy Ann Markland's skull was fractured and her entire face bruised and lacerated by blows which police said were delivered with a heavy weapon.

The noise awakened the girl's mother, Mrs. Lee Markland, who was knocked down by the attacker as he fled from the house. Pursuit was delayed because the man had cut telephone wires.

Mrs. Markland said the intruder dashed from her daughter's room and struck her over the right eye then ran down the stairs. Peggy Ann was found lying on her bed unconscious, her head in a pool of blood. An 37-year-old invalid relative who sleeps in the girl's room was not awakened.

The Marklands live in Hughes Park, a small community four miles southeast of Norristown. Markland works on the night shift at the Rainey Wood Coke Co., Swedeland.

Weather Delaying
Cub Plane Flyers

Tokyo, Oct. 23 (AP)—Two Americans on a leisurely flight around the world in two cub planes postponed a hop to northern Japan today because of unfavorable weather.

George Truman of Los Angeles and Clifford Evans of Washington, D. C., had planned to fly from Tokyo to the air field at Chitose, on the northernmost Japanese island of Hokkaido.

They still were waiting, also, for a reply to their request for permission to make emergency landings in the Russian Kuriles if they run into trouble on their 1,500-mile hop to the Aleutians, the most dangerous leg on their trip.

NURSE'S DEATH
PROBE GOES ON

Lake George, N. Y., Oct. 23 (AP)—The Warren county grand jury trying to solve the puzzle of Reva Reznick's death today considered hearing, without a waiver of immunity, the testimony of John G. Finn, last known person to see the 23-year-old New York city nurse alive.

Finn, 23, Summer hotel bellhop from Stamford, Conn., refused to sign a waiver yesterday when called before the panel of 19 men and one woman. He offered to testify without waiving his constitutional rights, but District Attorney J. Clarence Herlihy objected.

Finn told reporters he had "nothing to fear" but had acted on a lawyer's advice in declining to authorize use of his testimony in any developments after the grand jury reports.

Herlihy gave the jury statements Finn made at the inquest that followed recovery of the dark-haired nurse's bruised body August 1, from Lake George. The district attorney also submitted statements he said Finn had made to investigators.

Finn said at the inquest that Miss Reznick ran away from him and disappeared in the pre-dawn hours of August 1, after a struggle in a parked automobile. She had scratched him and he had struck her on the mouth, he said.

Recover Auto
The two door sedan owned by William Martin, South Seton avenue, which was stolen last Friday morning between midnight and 6 a.m. from its parking place directly across from the Martin residence in front of the Joseph Wivell blacksmith shop, has been recovered. The Maryland and Pennsylvania state police were notified of the theft, and the car was promptly located near Shamokin and the occupants placed under arrest. The car was recovered in good condition. The thieves, it was learned, were escaped convicts and the auto was filled with stolen goods. The prisoners carried arms when apprehended.

SUICIDES IN JAIL
Ellwood City, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—Deputy Coroner Charles Allen reported that Fred R. Stevens, 45, hanged himself with his belt in the city jail last night. A rescuer found him tied futilely to revive him. Allen said Stevens was arrested on an intoxication charge.

Gets Year In Jail
For Letter Theft

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—Matthew W. Morrison of New Castle was sentenced to a year and a day in prison by Federal District Judge R. M. Gibson yesterday on charges of stealing a letter from the mails and taking a $20 check it contained.

Morrison pleaded guilty to taking a letter from the mailbox of Mrs. Cassie Morrow, of New Castle, which contained an insurance check.

JURY TO GET
DOCTOR'S CASE

LaGrange, Tex., Oct. 23 (AP)—Twelve south Texas jurors were expected to be handed the strange case of Dr. Lloyd I. Ross, Harvard-educated surgeon charged with murder in the May 25 ranch road slaying of the Willard York family.

Judge J. R. Fuchs said he would allow state and defense attorneys three hours and fifteen minutes each to present their arguments to the Fayette county jury.

Testimony in the trial, now in its tenth day, ended yesterday.

The trial of the 43-year-old San Antonio doctor, native of Ohio, was transferred to LaGrange from New Braunfels, Texas, near where the ambush slaying took place.

York, an investment broker; his wife, son and mother were slain as they drove to church along the hilly cornal county side-road from their ranch.

Thirteen-year-old Ann York, only daughter of the broker, was wounded, but she escaped, and testified here that the doctor was the man who fired a lever-action rifle into her father's car.

The defense based its case on a plea of insanity.

Britain's Oldest
Burglar Retires

London, Oct. 23 (AP)—Britain's oldest burglar retired in disillusionment today, deploring his age and clumsiness and the hard times that have come to house-breakers in modern England.

James Ferguson, 90, who in the last 47 years has received jail sentences totaling 45½ years, had his latest sentence commuted recently on condition that he retire to a Salvation Army hostel. An Oxford court had described him as "the doyen of British burglars."

"I can't run like I used to," Ferguson said in his farewell interview before retiring to a hostel at Brighton. "And besides I'm getting clumsy. I knock things over on the job. Anyway, country places are hardly worth breaking into now."

POULTRY RULE
DECISION IS DELAYED AGAIN

Poultry was off the menu today in homes and restaurants which have joined in the government's emergency food conservation program as the Citizens' Food committee delayed a decision to eliminate poultryless Thursdays.

The committee also was confronted with another major problem in its campaign to save grain as AFL workers made a new demand to consider postponement of the proposed 60-day shutdown of the distilling industry.

Charles Luckman, chairman of the Citizens' Food committee, did not indicate when a final decision on the two matters would be given. It was reported, however, no change is planned at present in the liquor holiday, which is scheduled to start at midnight Saturday.

Asks Local Committees

Luckman, in a broadcast yesterday to mayors of cities all over the country, asked them to set up local conservation committees. He urged "full cooperation" by agriculture, industry and the consumer in the campaign to save 100,000,000 bushels of grain for western Europe.

The AFL Distillery Workers union claims from 10,000 to 12,000 of its members will be made idle by the liquor holiday.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press index of wholesale prices of 35 commodities advanced yesterday to 199.85 to set a new all-time peak. It was the seventh consecutive day gains were shown and the mark was nearly double the 100 average price paid for the commodities in 1926, the base year. A year ago the index was 155.53.

The rise was the result of gains in wholesale prices of wheat, cattle, lambs, rye, cotton, wool, cotton cloth, flour, lard, scrap steel, rubber and cocoa. December wheat hit a new 30 year high of $3.11 at Chicago.

On the downward side yesterday were hogs, corn, oats and butter. Good and choice butcher hogs weighing 180 to 300 pounds showed a drop of $2.50 a hundred pounds in Chicago since inauguration of the first meatless Tuesday on October 6. There has been a steady decline in hogs in all major livestock markets.

In a move to save grain, the Agriculture department recommended a reduction of the spring pig crop from 53,000,000 head in 1947 to 50,000,000 head in 1948.

ARREST CONDUCTOR

Warren, O., Oct. 23 (AP)—H. H. Morton, 52-year-old conductor on a Pennsylvania railroad freight train, was free on recognizance today on a charge of blocking a crossing here for 40 minutes with his train. The Freedom, Pa., conductor, released from municipal court for a later appearance, was charged in a warrant issued last Monday by Traffic Commissioner Clifford M. Wagers.

Scrap Shortage Is Threatening Steel

Cleveland, Oct. 23 (AP)—The scrap shortage is threatening steel production with "a calamitous blow," Robert W. Wolcott of Coatesville, Pa., president of the Lukens Steel Co., says.

He told a group of steel, foundry and scrap metal officials yesterday that lack of scrap had prevented full steel production and that unless more was procured, the rate would fall still lower.

Cheektowaga, N. Y., Oct. 23 (AP)—Town board members are convinced that Walter Pietrzak wants "a lot of fixing."

"I want my street fixed," Pietrzak wrote. "It is a lousy street. I want a sign on it, too. That street is really bad. Fix it because it needs fixing. You must fix it. Fix it. Please fix it. It needs it very bad."

Trees For Autumn Color

Beauty and utility are easily joined in choosing shade trees for the home grounds, street and roadside. Of course, it is important to select a genus and species known to be free from prevalent diseases and not subject to serious attacks by pests. But at this time of year it is possible to realize that autumn color is another merit worth seeking in planning and planting shade and ornamental trees.

Observation proves that trees vary greatly in their autumn coloring habits. For example, one maple of the sugar species will be ablaze with color and another's foliage turns little from its summer green before dropping. Then too, there are genera and species of numerous other trees, whose autumn beauty is not well known.

In reproducing maples for their fall foliage display it is not wise to risk merely the particular species of which one or more trees are known to put on gorgeous robes in autumn. If leaf beauty for fall is sought, that particular tree should be propagated. This can be done either by seed or grafting. Seed of species which ripens in the spring should be planted soon after seed is ripe; seed which ripens in the fall may be planted after it ripens or stratified over winter and planted in early spring. It is advisable to graft like species, preferably starting them in pots under glass.

The native persimmon tree often brings a welcome touch of brilliant coloring to autumn fields in addition to its fruit. This tree is valuable also for its hardwood timber. That it is not more widely grown for these triple merits is one of the inexplicable facts of American judgment. Seed may be planted in late fall. Nursery or field seedlings may be set out in late fall or early spring. And the tree is quite easily propagated by budding and grafting.

Our native sassafras deserves wider use as an ornamental and shade tree, both for the fruit it bears for birds and its fine autumn coloring.

The exotic Ginkgo, often called Maidenhair tree, is not only extremely hardy in exposed and otherwise inhospitable locations, but it holds its foliage late and then for a week or more turns to a cloud of light gold. This tree merits wider adoption. The male form should be grown as the female bears crops of ill-smelling nuts.

Perhaps the most alluring of all hardy trees is the Sweet Gum, listed botanically as Liquidambar styraciflua. Seedling or nursery trees should be pruned back severely at planting time. Propagation by seed is often practiced, although seed germinates slowly. The gums are almost immune to diseases and insect ravages. They should be grown for their hardiness as well as their autumn attractiveness.

The oaks, like maples, vary greatly even within a species regarding their fall foliage coloring. If a particular tree is exceptionally beautiful in autumn, it should be propagated by grafting rather than by planting acorns from it, although the coloring habits are often transmitted through the seed. Acorns should be planted in late fall. Grafts should be used on closely related species, with grafting done in early spring.

Common Winter Ills Of Poultry

The numerous details which go to make up what is called successful poultry keeping quite naturally fall into three main groups—Proper feeding, comfortable and sanitary housing, and adequate protection from parasites and diseases. About these subjects scores of weighty volumes could be and have been written. This short discussion is directed toward the most timely of the three—parasites and diseases.

First among suggestions is this—Every flock owner, from the person who keeps a few hens in a backyard flock for egg production to bolster family food requirements to the large commercial poultry owner should have a copy of Farmers' Bulletin 1652—Diseases and Parasites Of Poultry. This is an excellent outline of common poultry troubles, written mainly in simple terms which the average poultryman can understand. It is free from two easy sources—(1) Write to a number of Congress for it; (2) Request it directly from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Office of Information, Washington 25, D. C. Chief among reasons why all poultry owners need this publication at this particular time of the year is the fact that it contains numerous illustrations and reproduced photographs to help them diagnose poultry ailments likely to appear in flocks during the next four or five months.

One of the most important steps in keeping late fall and winter diseases at a minimum among laying hens is to observe the birds daily in order to detect ailing members as soon as their first symptoms are visible. The wisdom of this is found in the speed with which certain communicable diseases spread from sick to well hens. Therefore, at the first signs of illness the victim should be removed from the flock

Pipeline Company Stock Is Purchased

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Rockefeller Foundation has sold 24,000 shares of capital stock of the Southern Pipe Line Co. to the Ashland Oil and Refining Co., Ashland, Ky., a foundation spokesman disclosed.

Price of the stock and other details of the transaction, which occurred early this month, were not given. Southern Pipe Lines has 100,000 shares of stock outstanding. It operates a system of 296 miles of crude oil pipelines in Pennsylvania.

and placed in an individual coop or other room where it is comfortable and where its trouble can be more easily diagnosed and treated.

Many beginners with poultry ask the practical question—What are the first symptoms to seek in common flock diseases?

At this time of the year, which is the period when poultry diseases take on their most serious scope, owners should look for all abnormal conditions, of course, but they should place first emphasis on ills likely to arise from colds, faulty ventilation, improper rations and related factors. These may be roughly grouped as nutritional and pulmonary ailments. They include nutritional roup (vitamin A deficiency), polyneuritis (vitamin B1 deficiency), gout (rickets (vitamin D deficiency), perosis (manganese deficiency), and several other conditions.

Of course, pulmonary ills easily arise from cold and otherwise uncomfortable houses, improper rations, crowding, lack of sunshine or its equivalent in cod-liver oil, and other neglect in feeds and care.

Among prominent symptoms to observe at this time of the year are: Difficult breathing, coughing or sneezing after hens go to roost, droopiness, loss of appetite, exudations from nose and eyes, unthrifty feathers, lameness, and loss of weight.

Poultry owners unable to diagnose the flock ills are invited to write the editor promptly and describe as fully as possible the symptoms they note. In many cases it is a wise precaution when several hens show any of these symptoms to call the County Farm Agent for an immediate inspection of the flock.

Warm Weather Ends In Middle West

(By The Associated Press)
October's spell of warm weather ended in some parts of the midwest today as cool weather moved eastward from the Rocky Mountain regions where snowfalls measured as high as eight inches and temperatures dropped below freezing. Mild weather was forecast for the Eastern and Southern states.

Snow fell in parts of Colorado, Wyoming, southern Montana and the extreme western portions of South Dakota and Nebraska. The fall measured 8 inches at Lander, Wyo., three inches at Denver and Rock Springs, Wyo., and two inches at Cheyenne, Wyo. The mercury dipped to nine above at Douglas, Wyo., the coldest spot in the area,

STRONG WINDS FAN HUGE FIRES OUT OF CONTROL

Portland, Me., Oct. 23 (AP)—Strong winds fanned huge fires at Waterboro and on Mount Desert Island out of control again today and hundreds of weary firefighters sought to check the flames at the edge of North Waterboro village.

Most of New England's other drought-induced forest fires, which have caused two deaths and more than $3,500,000 in property damage, were under control, however, as thousands of firemen and volunteers continued their efforts to check the blazes completely.

Former Fire Chief Richard Carl of Waterboro said firefighters were making a stand at the edge of North Waterboro village in an effort to save the settlement of 15 houses, a church, school and store.

A call was sounded by Bar Harbor officials for additional help to fight the Mount Desert blaze, which was moving toward Hull's Cove, three miles north of fashionable Bar Harbor. Bar Harbor itself did not appear in danger. Hull's Cove is a small village of fine homes and cottages.

No end of the prolonged drought was seen but the U. S. Weather Bureau said scattered showers were possible tomorrow in Maine, where approximately 400 homes, cottages and farm buildings and more than 26,000 acres of woodlands have been blackened with an estimated loss of $3,000,000.

Scores of blazes in Massachusetts damage was estimated by officials at $500,000. There was no estimate of damage caused by smaller fires in New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The largest of 25 blazes reported in New York was at Harriman, where a seven-mile fire front sent smoke over the Hudson River valley to the edge of New York city. The blaze was turned away from the 27,000-acre estate of Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman.

New Jersey, with 2,000,000 acres of forest, reported at least 20 fires and the state conservation commission cancelled all out-of-doors fire permits.

Seek Three Escaped Prisoners At Reading

Reading, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—More than 100 police scoured the Reading area today for three escaped prisoners from the Berks county jail—still at large after the capture of a companion, 19-year-old Earl Youse.

Youse, who broke out of the county jail Tuesday night with the other three by scaling a 30-foot wall, was seized yesterday by Warren Adam, 27-year-old veteran who operates a garage and grocery at nearby State Hill.

Adam, alerted by a telephone message that the four prisoners were believed headed toward State Hill, captured Youse as he was about to accept a ride from a motorist.

Police, meanwhile, warned all residents of the area to be on the look-out for Charles Dion, 23, of Reading, parole violator from Eastern penitentiary at Philadelphia; and Robert Jalbert, 24, and Harold Curtis, 24, of Biddeford, Me., both parole violators from the South Reformatory at Windham, Me.

while Laramie, Wyo., reported 15 above and Cheyenne 20.

Rain was moving eastward through the Great Lakes region along with the cooler air, indicating a sharp drop in temperatures, which reached into the 80's throughout most of the midwest yesterday.

President Truman Faces Showdown Today On Emergency Help For Europeans

TWO PATHS OPEN TO EXECUTIVE IN AID CRISIS

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Oct. 23 (P)—President Truman faced a showdown today with Congress on emergency aid for Europe.

High government officials indicated the chief executive had two alternative courses to follow at the extraordinary White House conference set for 2:30 p.m. (EST):

1. He could urge a special session of Congress in December to appropriate funds to tide over such hard pressed nations as France and Italy, until next year's regular session has time to act on the long-range Marshall plan for European recovery.

2. Or he could propose that the government proceed to use at once some funds not originally intended for European assistance out which might legally be diverted to that purpose.

Hold Legal Course

In this connection it was learned that lawyers of the state, agriculture and treasury departments had decided informally this week that commodity credit corporation resources might be used on a short-term basis to send food to Europe.

The Commodity Credit Corporation is the government's farm price support agency and in that role buys and sells agricultural products.

There is no definite advance indication as to which course, if either, the president actually would recommend.

Some persons familiar with his views said Mr. Truman has seemed to favor the idea of a special session but has been concerned over what they said he regards as political difficulties in the way.

Face Complications

The one seemingly hard fact which stood out in information gathered informally from officials advising Mr. Truman on the current emergency is that the money which thus far has been made available to France and Italy is not enough to carry them through the winter.

Secretary of State Marshall told the New York Herald Tribune forum last night that Europe's need for help is "real and urgent" and in his view "no longer a matter of argument."

Mr. Truman himself in a letter to the forum said "There can never be a stable world until the peoples of Europe are in a position to make their full contribution to world stability."

The background of today's White House meeting was further complicated by the political situation in Europe. There the latest word from Moscow reaffirms the intention of the Communist parties throughout Europe to fight the Marshall plan and its related recovery moves at every turn.

Light Co. Workers Make Wage Demand

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (P)—The Independent Association of Duquesne Light Company Employees, which called a crippling 27-day strike last fall to enforce its demands for a new contract, is seeking a cost-of-living wage increase.

George L. Mueller, president of the Independent group which has the collective bargaining right for some 3,800 employees, did not divulge the amount of the desired increase asked in a letter to company officials.

Spokesmen for the company declined comment although one said the letter had not been received when the office closed at 5 p.m. yesterday.

Mueller said the wage demand resulted from an arbitration award of last winter that permitted either the company or the union to reopen the contract in the event the cost of living varied 10 points above or below a base figure.

GETS HOTEL JOB

Franklin, Pa., Oct. 23 (P)—Warren Walker, who served for several years as manager of the Park hotel before its destruction by fire four years ago, has been named assistant manager of the Exchange hotel. Walker became manager of the Hotel Corry at Corry, Pa., after the Park burned.

Benjamin Franklin invented the lightning rod.

RUSSIANS AIM TO WRECK U.S. ECONOMIC LIFE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Soviet Russia has touched a new high in her aggression against democracy by boldly blaming the world economic slump on the Communists' failure to get an economic plan approved in the United States—an interesting corollary to the present protection in the red capital that America is headed for a great depression.

The general idea is that if all European nations, and indeed with the Marshall plan will stand up with the Soviet bloc, and be steadfast in opposing American slave loan conditions, Americans will be faced with an economic crisis stemming from lack of foreign demand for their production. Then, so this extraordinary proposal goes, anti-capitalist Russia can cooperate with nationalistic European countries in a plan to wreck the U.S. economy on the basis of "protection and mutual fulfillment of obligations."

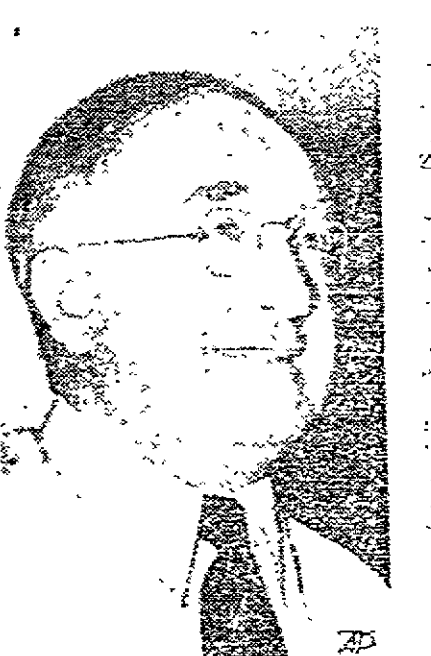

Answer To DeGaulle

This fresh method of attack on the U.S.A. was detailed in a speech by Andre Zhdanov—one of Bolshevik's top functionaries at the recent conference in Poland among representatives of Russia and pro-satellite countries of eastern Europe.

The conference in Poland was held some weeks ago, but it was only yesterday that Moscow released Zhdanov's speech to the press. It is a highly interesting circumstance that the release comes on top of General Charles De Gaulle's sensational political comeback in the French.

Weather Conditions Cut Clover Supply

With 1947 national production of red clover seed only about two-thirds of last year's, a decreased output from Pennsylvania farms is reported by the state Department of Agriculture.

Weather conditions and reduced acreage this year have contributed to the short supply, according to a Federal State survey. The prospective national crop of 1,459,160 bushels of thrasher-run red clover seed compares with the record 1946 crop of 2,120,800 bushels.

Pennsylvania production this year is indicated to be 17,300 bushels, thrasher-run or 13,850 bushels of clean seed compared with 20,000 and 15,600, respectively, for the 1946 season.

Pennsylvania acreage harvested this year was 23,050 compared with 27,500 in 1946. Yield per acre is placed at 0.75 bushels, the same as a year ago.

OIL PRODUCTION UP

President Truman Faces Showdown Today On Emergency Help For Europeans

TWO PATHS OPEN TO EXECUTIVE IN AID CRISIS

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington Oct. 23 (AP)—President Truman faced a showdown today with congressional leaders over how to provide emergency help for the dollar-short countries of western Europe.

High government officials indicated the chief executive had two alternative courses to follow at the extraordinary White House conference set for 2:30 p.m. (EST):

1. He could suggest a special session of congress in December to appropriate funds to tide over such hard pressed nations as France and Italy until next year's regular session has time to act on the long-range Marshall plan for European recovery.

2. Or he could propose that the government proceed to use at once some funds not originally intended for European assistance but which might legally be diverted to that purpose.

Hold Legal Course

In this connection it was learned that lawyers of the state, agriculture and treasury departments had decided informally this week that commodity credit corporation resources might be used on a short term basis to send food to Europe.

The Commodity Credit Corporation is the government's farm price support agency and in that role buys and sells agricultural products. There is no definite advance indication as to which course, if either, the president actually would recommend.

Some persons familiar with his views said Mr. Truman has seemed to favor the idea of a special session but has been concerned over what they said he regards as political difficulties in the way.

Face Complications

The one seemingly hard fact which stood out in information gathered informally from officials, advising Mr. Truman on the current emergency is that the money which this far has been made available to France and Italy is not enough to carry them through the winter.

Secretary of State Marshall told the New York Herald Tribune last night that Europe's need for help is "real and urgent" and in his view "no longer a matter of argument."

Mr. Truman himself in a letter to the forum said "There can never be a stable world until the peoples of Europe x x x are in a position to make their full contribution to world stability."

The background of today's White House meeting was further complicated by the political situation in Europe. There the latest word from Moscow reaffirms the intention of the Communist parties throughout Europe to fight the Marshall plan and its related recovery moves at every turn.

Light Co. Workers Make Wage Demand

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—The Independent Association of Duquesne Light Company Employees, which called a crippling 27-day strike last fall to enforce its demands for a new contract, is seeking a cost-of-living wage increase.

George L. Mueller, president of the Independent group which has the collective bargaining right for some 3,800 employees, did not divulge the amount of the desired increase asked in a letter to company officials.

Spokesmen for the company declined comment although one said the letter had not been received when the office closed at 5 p. m., yesterday.

Mueller said the wage demand resulted from an arbitration award of last winter that permitted either the company or the union to reopen the contract in the event the cost of living varied 10 points above or below a base figure.

GETS HOTEL JOB

Franklin, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—Warren Walker, who served for several years as manager of the Park hotel before its destruction by fire four years ago, has been named assistant manager of the Exchange hotel. Walker became manager of the Hotel Corry at Corry, Pa., after the Park burned.

Benjamin Franklin invented the lightning rod.

RUSSIANS AIM TO WRECK U.S. ECONOMIC LIFE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Soviet Russia has touched a new high in her aggression against democracy by boldly blazoning to the world a scheme whereby the Communists figure that an economic crisis can be precipitated in the United States—an interesting corollary to the persistent predictions in the red capital that America is headed for a great depression.

The general idea is that if all European nations now affiliated with the Marshall plan will gang up with the Soviet bloc, and be steadfast in "opposing American slave loan conditions," Americans will be faced with an economic crisis stemming from lack of foreign demand for their production. Then, so this extraordinary proposal goes, anti-capitalist Russia can cooperate with capitalist European countries in definitely on the basis of "reciprocity and mutual fulfillment of obligations."

Answer To DeGaulle

This fresh method of attack on the U.S.A. was detailed in a speech by Andrei Zhdanov—one of Bolshevism's top figures—at the recent conference in Poland among representatives of Russia and her satellite countries of eastern Europe.

The conference in Poland was held some weeks ago, but it was only yesterday that Moscow released Zhdanov's speech to the press. It's a highly interesting circumstance that this release comes on top of General Charles De Gaulle's sensational political comeback in the French country-wide municipal elections. De Gaulle, fiercely anti-Communist, achieved his victory by calling on the public to follow him in a crusade to defeat Communism and rehabilitate the economically harassed nation. It strikes me that this threat from De Gaulle likely is what impelled Moscow to make public the Zhdanov plan.

NO RECORDS—James C. Petrillo, (above) president of the American Federation of Musicians, announced union musicians would make no kind of recordings after Dec. 31.

It's no news either to the United States or the other democracies that Moscow has been doing its utmost to create chaos within their borders by the employment of Russian agents and with the assistance of fifth columnists and fellow travelers.

The United States authorities are moving energetically to eliminate the red menace in America. And other countries of this hemisphere are house-cleaning. Canada has smashed a big hole in the Russian spy ring whose ramifications extended throughout the Dominion and the United States. The Brazilian government has severed diplomatic relations with Moscow and at the same time Chile severed diplomatic and consular relations not only with Russia but with Czechoslovakia.

So the Soviet scheme for creation of economic chaos finds strong resistance moving in both the western hemisphere and among democracies like France and Britain.

The 1940 census showed that cows were milked on about three-fourths of U. S. farms.

Black Friday was a feature of one of the pagan Greek cults.

Trees For Autumn Color

Beauty and utility are easily joined in choosing shade trees for the home grounds, street and roadside. Of course, it is important to select a genus and species known to be free from prevalent diseases and not subject to serious attacks by pests. But at this time of year it is possible to realize that autumn color is another merit worth seeking in planning and planting shade and ornamental trees.

Observation proves that trees vary greatly in their autumn coloring habits. For example, one maple of the sugar species will be ablaze with color and another's foliage turns dull from its summer green before dropping. Then too, there are genera and species of numerous other trees whose autumn beauty is not well known.

In reproducing maples for their fall foliage display it is not wise to risk merely the particular species of which one or more trees are known to put on gorgeous robes in autumn. If leaf beauty for fall is sought, that particular tree should be propagated. This can be done either by seed, or grafting. Seed of species which ripens in the spring should be planted soon after seed is ripe and when sown in the fall may be planted after it ripens or stratified over winter and planted in early spring. It is advisable to graft like species, preferably starting them in pots under glass.

Our native sassafras deserves wider use as an ornamental and shade tree both for the fruit it bears for birds and its fine autumn coloring.

The exotic Ginkgo often called Maidenhair tree, is an evergreen tree in exposed and otherwise unfavorable locations, but it holds its foliage here and there for a week or more turns to a cloud of light gold. This tree merits adoption. The maid tree should be grown as the female bears crops of ill-smelling nuts.

Perhaps the most alluring of all hardy trees is the Sweet Gum, Liquidambar styraciflua. Seedling or nursery trees should be planted in late fall. Propagation by seed is often practiced although seed germinates slowly. The gum is almost immune to diseases and insect ravages. They should be grown for their hardiness as well as their autumn attractiveness.

The oaks, like maples, vary greatly, even within a species, regarding their fall foliage coloring. It is a particular tree is exceptionally beautiful in autumn. It should be propagated by grafting rather than by planting seeds from it, although the coloring habits are often transmitted through the seed. Oaks should be planted in late fall. Grafts should be used on closely related species, well grafting done in early spring.

The native persimmon tree often brings a welcome touch of brilliant coloring to autumn. Being in addition to its fruit, this tree is valuable also for its hardwood lumber. That it is not more widely grown for these triple merits is one of the negligible facts of American judgment. Seed may be planted in late fall. Nursery or field seedlings may be set out in late fall or early spring. And the tree is quite easily propagated by budding and grafting.

Common Winter Ills Of Poultry

The numerous details which go to make up what is called a "cold" in poultry keeping quite naturally fall into two main groups—Prevention, comfortable and sanitary housing, and adequate protection from parasites and diseases. About these subjects scores of weighty volumes could be and have been written. This short discussion is directed toward the most likely of the three—parasites and diseases.

First among suggestions is this—Every flock owner, from the person who keeps a few hens in a backyard flock for egg production to the large commercial poultry grower should have a copy of Farmers' Bulletin 1653—Diseases and Parasites Of Poultry. This is an excellent outline of common poultry troubles, written mainly in simple terms, which the average poultryman can understand. It is free to all interested persons. Write to the nearest extension agent or to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Office of Information, Washington 25, D. C. Chief extension agents will all poultry owners have this bulletin for a limited number of years.

One of the most important steps in keeping late fall and winter diseases at a minimum amount is to begin to observe the birds daily in order to detect ailing members as soon as their first symptoms are visible. The wisdom of this is found in the speed with which certain communicable diseases spread from sick to well hens. Therefore, at the first signs of illness the victim should be removed from the flock.

Warm Weather Ends In Middle West

(By The Associated Press)
 October's spell of warm weather ended in some parts of the midwest today as cold weather moved eastward from the Rocky Mountain regions where snowfalls measured as high as eight inches and temperatures dropped below freezing. Mild weather was forecast for the Eastern and Southern States.

Snow fell in parts of Colorado, Wyoming, southern Montana and the extreme western portions of South Dakota and Nebraska. The fall measured 8 inches at Denver, Wyo., three inches at Denver and Rock Springs, Wyo., and two inches at Cheyenne, Wyo. The mercury dipped to nine above at Douglas, Wyo., the coldest spot in the area.

STRONG WINDS FAN HUGE FIRES OUT OF CONTROL

Portland, Me., Oct. 23 (AP)—Strong winds fanned huge fires at Waterboro and on Mount Desert Island out of control again today and hundreds of weary firefighters sought to check the flames at the edge of North Waterboro village.

Most of New England's other drought-induced forest fires which have caused two deaths and more than $3,500,000 in property damage were under control, however, as thousands of firemen and volunteers continued their efforts to check the blazes completely.

Former Fire Chief Richard Carll of Waterboro said firefighters were making a stand at the edge of North Waterboro village in an effort to save the settlement of 15 houses, a church, school and store.

Ask More Help
 A call was sounded by War Harbor officials for additional help to fight the Mount Desert blazes, which was moving toward Hull's Cove, three miles north of fashionable Bar Harbor. Bar Harbor itself did not appear in danger. Hull's Cove is a small village of five homes and cottages.

No end of the prolonged drought was seen but the U. S. Weather Bureau said scattered showers were possible tomorrow in Maine, where approximately 400 homes, cottages, and farm buildings and more than 26,000 acres of woodlands have been blackened with an estimated loss of $2,000,000.

Scores Of Blazes
 In Massachusetts damage was estimated by officials at $500,000. There was no estimate of damage caused by smaller fires in New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The largest of 25 blazes reported in New York was at Harriman, where a seven-mile fire front sent smoke over the Hudson River valley to the edge of New York City. The blaze was turned away from the 27,000-acre estate of Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman.

New Jersey, with 2,000,000 acres of forest, reported at least 29 fires and the state conservation commission cancelled all out-of-doors fire permits.

Seek Three Escaped Prisoners At Reading

Reading, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—More than 100 police scoured the Reading area today for three escaped prisoners from the Berks county jail—still at large after the capture of a companion, 19-year-old Earl Youse.

Youse, who broke out of the county jail Tuesday night with the other two by scaling a 30-foot wall, was seized yesterday by Warren Adam, 27-year-old, recently was arrested, a garage and grocery at nearby State Hill.

Adam, alerted by a telephone message that the four prisoners were believed headed toward State Hill, captured Youse as he was about to accept a ride from a motorist.

Police, meanwhile, warned all residents of the area to be on the lookout for Charles Dion, 26, of Reading, parole violator from Eastern Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; and Robert Jalbert, 24, and Harold Curtis, 24, of Bedford, Mo., both parole violators from the South Republican at Windham, Me.

While Laramie, Wyo., reported 15 above and Cheyenne 20.

Rain was moving eastward through the Great Lakes region along with the cooler air, indicating a sharp drop in temperatures, which reached into the 30's throughout most of the midwest yesterday.

MARSHALL IS CRITICIZED ON 'SILENT' CHARGE

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall has been given very sympathetic treatment by the American press.
He was treated that way during the war when he did a brilliant job as chief of the army staff. Generally, he had the same treatment since becoming Secretary of State early this year.
But newsmen who cover the State Department feel that Marshall does not "give" very much with information.
His basic schedule calls for a news conference once a week, when he's in town. He's been away often. Frequently when he is here he lets subordinates meet the newsmen for him.

Didn't Say Much
One State Department reporter says: "Marshall has met the newsmen less than any Secretary of State of recent history."
Last spring he attended the Foreign Ministers' conference in Moscow for two months. He had a news conference at the beginning and the end.
Newsmen who covered that conference felt that Marshall didn't say much at either of the two conferences. In between times, they had to get information on the highly important meeting where they could.
The Post Opens Up
This week the Washington Post, an influential morning newspaper here, opened up on Marshall. It took critical cracks at him on these grounds: That he's not keeping the American people informed on the highly important events that are daily taking place.

(Last night at Columbia, S. C., James F. Byrnes, who preceded Marshall as Secretary of State and held news conferences twice weekly, made a speech in which, among other things, he said:
"I think the people should be given the facts while decisions are in the making in order to form an intelligent conclusion and try to influence the action of their government."
"The people should not be kept in the dark until decisions are made which vitally affect the lives of all the people. Then governments resort to propaganda to justify fateful decisions, and the citizen who disagrees with the decisions is regarded as disloyal."
Follows Lafayette Talk
The Washington Post tackled Marshall as the result of a talk

GIRL RUN DOWN, BEATEN, TAKEN FOR LONG RIDE

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—A pretty 17-year-old high school girl was run down by a motorist, beaten with a tire iron and driven along lonely back roads for several hours before she was released, state police reported early today.
State Policeman Maurice Wilhere said dark-haired Alice Sanchez—a student at West Chester, Pa., high school—managed to stagger to her home at nearby Milltown where her parents rushed her to Chester county hospital.
Physicians said the girl was suffering from shock, loss of blood and bruises.
Wilhere said the girl told him she was walking along a road near her home after leaving a trolley she had taken from school late yesterday.
The state policeman quoted her as saying:
Run Down and Beaten
An automobile drove past with a young man at the wheel. The motorist stopped several hundred yards from her, turned around and started back. As Alice stepped aside to permit the car to pass, the automobile swerved into her, knocking her down and scattering her school books.
As she attempted to retrieve the books, the man got out of the car and began beating her. He stopped only after she agreed to get into his car, Wilhere said the girl told him. For the next two or three hours she was driven through the countryside too weak to remember clearly what her assailant looked like or where she had been.
She finally was released when she complained she was going to faint, Wilhere said. Her assailant made no attempt to molest her while they were in the car, Wilhere added.

Marshall made recently at Lafayette college.
In that talk Marshall told his audience that American students are not being taught enough history to know what's going on in the world.
Picking him up there, the Post said of Marshall in an editorial: "x x x the most persistent criticism that is being made of General Marshall is that he is denying the people acquaintance with the history that is unfolding in his own office, x x x In all the history of our times nothing compares in significance to the history of our foreign relations."
"Yet Secretary Marshall has failed to keep the people daily informed of the momentous events in which he is a participant. In lecturing the schoolteachers on their shortcomings, he forgot that he, as Secretary of State, ought to be the greatest teacher of history in the land."

White for a Shroud

By DON CAMERON

Chapter 12

At a few minutes after one o'clock the electric bulbs in the newspaper shop came alight as suddenly as they had blinked out the night before. Brant looked up thankfully, feeling somewhat as he imagined primitive man must have felt saluting the rising sun after hours of darkness.

"They took their time," Quarfield grumbled. "I been all morning sticking type I could of run off in half an hour on the machine."

"If I had your disposition I'd keep it secret," Brant said.

Starting for the office, he was irritated by Quarfield's manner; and yet he was aware that it was not altogether Quarfield's fault. Yesterday and today had stretched his own nerves to the point where every extraneous word jarred upon them.

Carol was at her desk, her face strained. She said haltingly, "Andy, all these things . . . the thing that happened today . . ."

"It was nasty, wasn't it? Would you like to go home? Glenn and I can manage without you."

"No. What I saw doesn't bother me too much. It's only when I try to think what could be behind it."

"There was a lot of drinking and fighting in town last night."

She moistened her lips. "It must be worse than that. This morning I told you I had a premonition that something was terribly wrong. It keeps growing. I don't want to worry you, but . . ."

"Don't be silly," He reminded himself that he had no right to be harsh with her. "You've got a bad case of jitters. I don't know of any harmful influence behind the things that have happened. I refuse to believe that a fiend is stalking the streets, waiting to pounce on the unwary."

She smiled feebly. "As I said before, Andy, I suppose I'm crazy." "We're all crazy. If we hadn't been to start with, the blizzard would have made us that way. Why don't you cut out some paper dolls while I do a little work?"

He twisted copy paper into his typewriter and with the ease of long practice began to write about the murdered corpse in the snow.

At 4 that afternoon the first copy of the Reporter came off the flat-bed press. If it was the most sensational newspaper ever published in the country—well, the news was the most sensational within the memory of any inhabitant.

The page was topped by three streamer lines which read:

CHARLES KING FOUND MURDERED;

MACFARLANE SHOT IN ACCIDENT;

CRANE FEARED LOST IN STORM!

Three separate stories dealt with the known facts of those occurrences—or such of the facts as Brant had seen fit to publish—but in his mind all of them ran together, just as the headlines tended to run together. No one, unless it was MacFarlane, knew better than he that they were actually three parts of the same story. Worth would suspect and Ella might guess, and people were bound to speculate, but the kernel of the truth remained hidden for the present.

As soon as he could, he left the shop and headed for Doctor Sperry's office. He found Sperry hunched over his rolloper desk, turning the pages of a magazine. He frowned at Brant through his horn-rimmed spectacles.

"I'm here for the day and maybe the week," he growled. "Half the town can die and the other half have babies and I wouldn't budge out of this chair."

Brant dropped into a chair, ignoring the outburst. He asked quietly, "How about Mac?"

"The old innkeeper will live if he wants to. I told you so last night. Except for his head he's sound as a Lake Superior cliff. But he's got to take orders from me, and if he blows off that temper of his once more I'm going to give him up and turn the case over to Coroner Perrault."

"Funny how he shot himself," Brant ventured.

"Listen," The physician leaned forward and tapped Brant's knee with a skinny forefinger. "One reason I had trouble with Mac was because he wouldn't tell me the truth. A patient can't get along with a doctor by lying to him. He didn't shoot himself. I told the sheriff so and I'm telling you."

"Then why would he say so?"

"Andy, I'm not an officer of the law nor even a particularly conscientious citizen. I'm too busy to worry about moral problems. I gave Ed Worth my opinion of how the bullet wound was inflicted because Ed asked for it and in his position he's entitled to it, but I haven't told anyone else and I won't. As a special favor to you I'll go even further. You asked why he said it was an accident?"

"I did."

"He said it because Charlie King was lying dead in the snow outside and Mac hoped he wouldn't be found there."

"Wait a minute. Are you trying to make a case against Mac for murdering King?"

"I'm not trying to make anything. You form your opinion and I'll form mine, and Ed Worth can form his. It doesn't worry me much. In fact it worries me so little that I didn't bother to tell Ed that when I was washing Mac up last night. I found some shreds of human skin under his fingernails. They might just possibly have come from those scratches in Charlie King's face."

Chapter 13

Brant gasped, shaking his head as if trying to deny Doctor Sperry's shocking statement.

"Human skin under Mac's fingernails—and Charlie King's face scratched by whoever strangled him? Doc, I don't know what to do!"

"Don't do anything. You can't change what has already happened. Just keep your mouth shut and hope for the best. I've been Mac's friend all his life, and I'm not going to say anything that might make trouble for him. The only reason I've talked to you is because you're his friend, too."

The young man stood up. "I'm going to pay him a visit."

"Not yet. I gave him enough sleeping medicine to keep an elephant down. Wait till after supper. And when you do go, see if you can find out something for me."

Brant waited.

Sperry's waspishness had departed. Now he was only a worried little man hunched in a creaky swivel chair with a brown sweater enveloping him.

"I said Mac could get well if he wants to. I suppose I'm as good a doctor as most, but I can't do much for a patient who won't cooperate. Will you try to find out why Mac doesn't want to keep on living?"

"Haven't you any idea?"

"It might be connected with a stranger in town, a man who calls himself Rigby. He paid Mac a visit."

"Rigby?"

"That's right. I understand he's been trying to find Ralston Crane. According to Mac that was his only reason for calling there, but at the rate Mac is lying you can take it or leave it."

"Rigby had a lot of nerve bothering a sick man."

"I left word there were to be no visitors except you. Ella and Agnes tried to keep him out. Unfortunately Mac was awake and heard the talk at the door. He insisted on seeing the guy."

"I'll try to find out what's on Mac's mind and talk him out of it," Brant promised. A cold desperation came over him. "We can't let him die."

Sperry shrugged, picking up his magazine. "When I was fresh out of school I used to feel that way about most of my patients, but a good many of them up and died in spite of me. The worst of it is, I never got over feeling that way."

He hooked the frame of the glasses behind his ears and began turning the pages. "We'll do what we can, son."

Brant walked aimlessly along Superior street. If Mac did not want to live, it seemed to him it could only be because he was unwilling to run the risk of being called to account for two homicides. In trying to escape through the door of death Mac would not be thinking of himself—he had no personal fear whatever—but would be hoping to protect the girl he loved from shame and disgrace.

Because Mac had the will to live if he chose, as attested by Sperry, he also had the will to die if he chose.

But it was one thing to say that Mac must live and another thing to convince the stubborn giant of it . . .

The muffled banging of a door, the sound of scuffling broke in upon his meditations. The noise issued from the snow tunnel that led to Sam Oliphant's bar. Oliphant's voice roared:

"Outside, ye standerin' snake!"

There was the solid thwack of a swung club coming in contact with a cushioned part of the human anatomy.

A hulking figure in an old tan overcoat came staggering out of the tunnel and went stumbling down the street. It was Big Al Nowka, whom the sheriff had classed yesterday among the trouble-makers of the community.

A laborer at the sawmill, Nowka was six and a half feet of Polish brawn and muscle. Normally he was as harmless and friendly as a puppy but a certain amount of whisky invariably worked a transformation in his character. Drunk, he would fight on the slightest pretext—or none at all—with the strength and ferocity of a gorilla. He also had a disquieting habit of seizing women in the streets and endeavoring to disrobe them; an ambition in which he had never quite succeeded.

Sam Oliphant appeared in apron and shirt-sleeves, brandishing the baseball bat with which he pulverized the ice that chilled his beer coils.

"On yer war!" the saloon keeper ordered, "or so help me I'll bash yer brains out!"

Oliphant noticed Brant. He said, "I been just waitin' fer the big ape to make trouble. He was drinkin' since last night, singin' an' carryin' on. All of a sudden he coldcocked three customers before I could lay the pacifier on him."

"What started it?" Brant asked.

"They was some talk about the killin' Big Al says MacFarlane killed Charlie King an' Crane too. There was boys from the paper mill at the bar, an' they wouldn't stand for it."

"Who tackled him?"

"Jim Scott took the first wallop. Tony Brinker busted two chair-throvin' em. I didn't rightly see who else was fightin' an' who was tryin' to hide."

Scott, MacFarlane's night engineer, came out to the street, rubbing his jaw.

"I do have the worst luck," Scott mumbled. "I think my jaw's broke. Nobody remembered to bring my overcoat back from Mac's after the shooting. When I was ready to quit work this morning I found some-one had took my cap and one of my mitts from my locker. He asked plaintively, 'Now who would want to steal my cap and one mitt?'"

Brant could think of one person who might have needed those things, and the thought opened a new and tempting field of conjecture.

What if Ralston Crane had not died in that log chopper after all? (To be continued)

Oil City, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—Tula Elder, 19, Oil City, suffered serious injuries in a 35-foot fall from the Pennsylvania railroad bridge. She tripped while running across the bridge on the way to work yesterday.

In this atomic age, we think too often in terms of new advancements in new fields . . . forgetting the enormous progress made in fields we take for granted. The telephone industry, for example, although held back longer than any other by reconversion delays, has made unheralded progress in its expansion program. In spite of the unprecedented demand for telephone service, we are moving ahead toward our goal of modern service for all who want it.

STRAVINSKY TO VIE FOR 'BLOOP-BLEEP' TRADE

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—Igor Stravinsky, idol of the long hair music set has adopted the torch song technique and will soon vie with be-bop and "bloop-bleep" for the juke box trade.

In his first step in this direction, the 65-year-old Russian-born composer-conductor has rearranged part of his famous "Firebird" ballet into a slow fox trot called "Summer Moon," Lou Levy, president of the Leeds Music corporation, said today.

Stravinsky's conversion began almost two years ago in conversations with the music publisher. The early conversations dealt with Stravinsky's desire to increase his royalties from "Firebird," to move into a more lucrative category in the standards prepared by the American Society of Composers and Publishers, and Levy's wish that Stravinsky might write march music for high school bands.

Followed Naturalization

"After all," Levy said, "as I said to Mr. Stravinsky: 'Do you want to be like Tchaikovsky and Chopin and wait for every one to pick your bones after you're dead? Do it yourself while you're still able to enjoy the money.'"

Levy said Stravinsky's switch in musical technique resulted from his naturalization as an American citizen two years ago. He said that in 1945 Stravinsky explained to him that the copyright laws were unfair to Russian immigrants in that since Russia does not recognize music copyrights of other nations, other countries frequently overlook royalty payments to Russian composers.

Levy said he told Stravinsky to write another arrangement of the "Firebird" with "one or two changes, maybe," then after Stravinsky became an American citizen, the new "Firebird" could be copyrighted and recorded.

Stravinsky did just that.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it causes rheumatism, backache, rheumatoid arthritis, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty urination with smearing and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Chapter 12

At a few minutes after one o'clock the electric bulbs in the newspaper shop came alight as suddenly as they had blinked out the night before. Brant looked up thankfully, feeling somewhat as he imagined primitive man must have felt saluting the rising sun after hours of darkness.

"They took their time," Quarfield grumbled. "I been all morning sticking type I could of run off in half an hour on the machine."

"If I had your disposition I'd keep it secret," Brant said.

Starting for the office, he was irritated by Quarfield's manner; and yet he was aware that it was not altogether Quarfield's fault. Yesterday and today had stretched his own nerves to the point where every extraneous word jarred upon them.

Carol was at her desk, her face strained. She said haltingly, "Andy, all these things . . . the thing that happened today . . ."

"It was nasty, wasn't it? Would you like to go home? Glenn and I can manage without you."

"No. What I say doesn't bother me too much. It's only when I try to think what could be behind it."

"There was a lot of drinking and fighting in town last night."

She moistened her lips. "It must be worse than that. This morning I told you I had a premonition that something was terribly wrong. It keeps growing. I don't want to worry you, but . . ."

"Don't be silly," He reminded himself that he had no right to be harsh with her. "You've got a bad case of jitters. I don't know of any baleful influence behind the things that have happened. I refuse to believe that a fiend is stalking the streets, waiting to pounce on the unwary."

She smiled feebly. "As I said before, Andy, I suppose I'm crazy."

"We're all crazy. If we hadn't been to start with, the blizzard would have made us that way. Why don't you cut out some paper dolls while I do a little work?"

He twisted copy paper into his typewriter and with the ease of long practice began to write about the murdered corpse in the snow.

At 4 that afternoon the first copy of the Reporter came off the flat-bed press. If it was the most sensational newspaper ever published in the country—well, the news was the most sensational within the memory of any inhabitant.

The page was topped by three streamer lines which read:

CHARLES KING FOUND MURDERED;

MACFARLANE SHOT IN ACCIDENT;

CRANE FEARED LOST IN STORM!

Three separate stories dealt with the known facts of those occurrences—or such of the facts as Brant had seen fit to publish—but in his mind all of them ran together, just as the headlines tended to run together. No one, unless it was Macfarlane, knew better than he that they were actually three parts of the same story. Worth would suspect and Ella might guess, and people were bound to speculate, but the kernel of the truth remained hidden for the present.

As soon as he could, he left the shop and headed for Doctor Sperry's office. He found Sperry hunched over his rollopp desk, turning the pages of a magazine. He frowned at Brant through his horn-rimmed spectacles.

"I'm here for the day and maybe the week," he growled. "Half the town can die and the other half have babies and I wouldn't budge out of this chair."

Brant dropped into a chair, ignoring the outburst. He asked quietly, "How about Mac?"

"The old lunatic will live if he wants to. I told you so last night. Except for his head he's sound as a Lake Superior cliff. But he's got to take orders from me, and if he blows off that temper of his once more I'm going to give him up and turn the case over to Coroner Perrault."

"Funny how he shot himself," Brant ventured.

"Listen." The physician leaned forward and tapped Brant's knee with a skinny forefinger. "One reason I had trouble with Mac was because he wouldn't tell me the truth. A patient can't get along with a doctor by lying to him. He didn't shoot himself. I told the sheriff so and I'm telling you."

"Then why would he say so?"

"Andy, I'm not an officer of the law nor even a particularly conscientious citizen. I'm too busy to worry about moral problems. I gave Ed Worth my opinion of how the bullet wound was inflicted because Ed asked for it and in his position he's entitled to it, but I haven't told anyone else and I won't. As a special favor to you I'll go even further. You asked why he said it was an accident?"

"I did."

"He said it because Charlie King was lying dead in the snow outside and Mac hoped he wouldn't be found there."

"Wait a minute. Are you trying to make a case against Mac for murdering King?"

"I'm not trying to make anything. You form your opinion and I'll form mine, and Ed Worth can form his. It doesn't worry me much. In fact it worries me so little that I didn't bother to tell Ed that when I was washing Mac up last night I found some shreds of human skin under his fingernails. They might just possibly have come from those scratches in Charlie King's face."

Chapter 13

Brant gasped, shaking his head as if trying to deny Doctor Sperry's shocking statement.

"Human skin under Mac's fingernails — and Charlie King's face scratched by whoever strangled him? Doc, I don't know what to do!"

"Don't do anything. You can't change what has already happened. Just keep your mouth shut and hope for the best. I've been Mac's friend all his life, and I'm not going to say anything that might make trouble for him. The only reason I've talked to you is because you're his friend, too."

The young man stood up. "I'm going to pay him a visit."

"Not yet. I gave him enough sleeping medicine to keep an elephant down. Wait till after supper. And when you do go, see if you can find out something for me."

Brant waited. Sperry's waspishness had departed. Now he was only a worried little man hunched in a creaky swivel chair with a brown sweater enveloping him.

"I said Mac could get well if he wants to. I suppose I'm as good a doctor as most, but I can't do much for a patient who won't cooperate. Will you try to find out why Mac doesn't want to keep on living?"

"Haven't you any idea?"

"It might be connected with a stranger in town, a man who calls himself Rigby. He paid Mac a visit."

"Rigby!"

"That's right. I understand he's been trying to find Ralston Crane. According to Mac that was his only reason for calling there, but at the rate Mac is lying you can take it or leave it."

"Rigby had a lot of nerve bothering a sick man."

"I left word there were to be no visitors except you. Ella and Agnes tried to keep him out. Unfortunately Mac was awake and heard the talk at the door. He insisted on seeing the guy."

"I'll try to find out what's on Mac's mind and talk him out of it," Brant promised. A cold desperation came over him. "We can't let him die."

Sperry shrugged, picking up his magazine. "When I was fresh out of school I used to feel that way about most of my patients, but a good many of them up and died in spite of me. The worst of it is, I never got over feeling that way."

He hooked the frame of the glasses behind his ears and began turning the pages. "We'll do what we can, son."

Brant walked aimlessly along Superior street. If Mac did not want to live, it seemed to him it could only be because he was unwilling to run the risk of being called to account for two homicides. In trying to escape through the door of death Mac would not be thinking of himself—he had no personal fear whatever—but would be hoping to protect the girl he loved from shame and disgrace.

Because Mac had the will to live if he chose, as attested by Sperry, he also had the will to die if he chose.

But it was one thing to say that Mac must live and another thing to convince the stubborn giant of it . . .

The muffled banging of a door, the sound of scuffling broke in upon his meditations. The noise issued from the snow tunnel that led to Sam Oliphant's bar. Oliphant's voice roared:

"Outside, ye slanderin' snake!" There was the solid thwack of a swung club coming in contact with a cushioned part of the human anatomy.

A hulking figure in an old tan overcoat came staggering out of the tunnel and went stumbling down the street. It was Big Al Nowka, whom the sheriff had classed yesterday among the trouble-makers of the community.

A laborer at the sawmill, Nowka was six and a half feet of Polish brawn and muscle. Normally he was as harmless and friendly as a puppy but a certain amount of whisky invariably worked a transformation in his character. Drunk, he would fight on the slightest pretext—or none at all—with the strength and ferocity of a gorilla. He also had a disquieting habit of seizing women in the streets and endeavoring to disrobe them; an ambition in which he had never quite succeeded.

Sam Oliphant appeared in apron and shirt-sleeves, brandishing the baseball bat with which he pulverized the ice that chilled his beer coils.

"On yer way!" the saloon keeper ordered. "or so help me I'll bash yer brains out."

Oliphant noticed Brant. He said, "I been just waitin' fer the big ape to make trouble. He was drinkin' since last night, singin' an' carryin' on. All of a sudden he coldcocked three customers before I could lay the pacifier on him."

"What started it?" Brant asked. "They was some talk about the killin'." Big Al says Macfarlane killed Charlie King an' Crane too. There was boys from the paper mill at the bar, an' they wouldn't stand for it."

"Who tackled him?"

"Jim Scott took the first wallop. Tony Brinker busted two chair throwin' 'em. I didn't rightly see who else was fightin' an' who was tryin' to hide."

Scott, Macfarlane's night engineer, came out to the street, rubbing his jaw.

"I do have the worst luck," Scott mumbled. "I think my jaw's broke. Nobody remembered to bring my overcoat back from Mac's after the shooting. When I was ready to quit work this morning I found someone had took my cap and one of my mitts from my locker. He asked plaintively, 'Now who would want to steal my cap and one mitt?'"

Brant could think of one person who might have needed those things, and the thought opened a new and tempting field of conjecture.

What if Ralston Crane had not died in that log chopper after all? (To be continued)

Oil City, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—Twila Elder, 19, Oil City, suffered serious injuries in a 35-foot fall from the Pennsylvania railroad bridge. She tripped while running across the bridge on the way to work yesterday.

STRAVINSKY TO VIE FOR 'BLOOP-BLEEP' TRADE

New York, Oct. 23 (AP)—Igor Stravinsky, idol of the long hair music set has adopted the torch song technique and will soon vie with be-bop and "bloop-bleep" for the juke box trade.

In his first step in this direction, the 65-year-old Russian-born composer-conductor has rearranged part of his famous "Firebird" ballet into a slow fox trot called "Summer Moon," Lou Levy, president of the Leeds Music corporation, said today.

Stravinsky's conversion began almost two years ago in conversations with the music publisher. The early conversations dealt with Stravinsky's desire to increase his royalties from "Firebird," to move into a more lucrative category in the standings prepared by the American Society of Composers and Publishers, and Levy's wish that Stravinsky might write march music for high school bands.

Followed Naturalization

"After all," Levy said, "as I said to Mr. Stravinsky: 'Do you want to be like Tchaikovsky and Chopin and wait for every one to pick your bones after you're dead? Do it yourself while you're still able to enjoy the money.'"

Levy said Stravinsky's switch in musical technique resulted from his naturalization as an American citizen two years ago. He said that in 1945 Stravinsky explained to him that the copyright laws were unfair to Russian immigrants in that since Russia does not recognize music copyrights of other nations, other countries frequently overlook royalty payments to Russian composers.

Levy said he told Stravinsky to write another arrangement of the "Firebird" with "one or two changes, maybe," then after Stravinsky became an American citizen, the new "Firebird" could be copyrighted and recorded.

Stravinsky did just that.

MARSHALL IS CRITICIZED ON 'SILENT' CHARGE

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—Secretary of State Marshall has been given very sympathetic treatment by the American press.

He was treated that way during the war when he did a brilliant job as chief of the army staff. Generally, he had the same treatment since becoming Secretary of State early this year.

But newsmen who cover the State Department feel that Marshall does not "give" very much with information.

His task schedule calls for a news conference once a week, when he's in town. He's been away often. Frequently when he is here he lets subordinates meet the newsmen for him.

Didn't Say Much
One State Department reporter says: "Marshall has met the newsmen less than any Secretary of State of recent history."

Last spring he attended the Foreign Ministers' conference in Moscow for two months. He had a news conference at the beginning and the end.

Newsmen who covered that conference felt that Marshall didn't say much at either of the two conferences. In between times, they had to get information on the highly important meeting where they could.

The Post Opens Up
This week the Washington Post, an influential morning newspaper here, opened up on Marshall. It took critical cracks at him on these grounds: That he's not keeping the American people informed on the hugely important events that are daily taking place.

(Last night at Columbia, S. C., James F. Byrnes, who preceded Marshall as Secretary of State and held news conferences twice weekly, made a speech in which, among other things, he said:

"I think the people should be given the facts while decisions are in the making in order to form an intelligent conclusion and try to influence the action of their government."

"The people should not be kept in the dark until decisions are made which vitally affect the lives of all the people. Then governments resort to propaganda to justify fateful decisions, and the citizen who disagrees with the decisions is regarded as disloyal."

Follows Lafayette Talk
The Washington Post tackled Marshall as the result of a talk

GIRL RUN DOWN, BEATEN, TAKEN FOR LONG RIDE

Philadelphia, Oct. 23 (AP)—A pretty 17-year-old high school girl was run down by a motorist, beaten with a tire iron and driven along lonely back roads for several hours before she was released, state police reported early today.

State Policeman Maurice Wilhere said dark-haired Alice Sanchez—a student at West Chester, Pa., high school—managed to stagger to her home at nearby Miltown where her parents rushed her to Chester county hospital.

Physicians said the girl was suffering from shock, loss of blood and bruises.

Wilhere said the girl told him she was walking along a road near her home after leaving a trolley she had taken from school late yesterday.

The state policeman quoted her as saying:

Run Down and Beaten
An automobile drove past with a young man at the wheel. The motorist stopped several hundred yards from her, turned around and started back. As Alice stepped aside to permit the car to pass, the automobile swerved into her, knocking her down and scattering her school books.

As she attempted to retrieve the books, the man got out of the car and began beating her. He stopped only after she agreed to get into his car, Wilhere said the girl told him.

For the next two or three hours she was driven through the countryside too weak to remember clearly what her assailant looked like or where she had been.

She finally was released when she complained she was going to faint, Wilhere said. Her assailant made no attempt to molest her while they were in the car, Wilhere added.

Marshall made recently at Lafayette college.

In that talk Marshall told his audience that American students are not being taught enough history to know what's going on in the world.

Picking him up there, the Post said of Marshall in an editorial: "x x x the most persistent criticism that is being made of General Marshall is that he is denying the people acquaintance with the history that is unfolding in his own office, x x x In all the history of our times nothing compares in significance to the history of our foreign relations."

Yet Secretary Marshall has failed to keep the people daily informed of the momentous events in which he is a participant. In lecturing schoolteachers on their shortcomings, he forgot that he, as Secretary of State, ought to be the greatest teacher of history in the land."

OPINIONS VARY ON OUTLAWING OF COMMUNISTS

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—"Outlaw the Communist party," says the witness. "That's how to get rid of Communism in this country."
All around the big hearing room people—but not all the people nod their heads yes.
For three days it's been like that at the Un-American Activities committee hearing on whether there is Communist influence in Hollywood.
One witness after another has climbed up on the stand, talked about Communism, and then said: "Outlaw the party."
It's easier to talk of outlawing the party than it is to do it. Outlaw it how?

"S64 Question"
Seeking a definite answer to that question, this writer called a number of lawyers here and in New York, lawyers inside and outside the government. They are men who are specialists in civil rights and liberties.

Bunched together, their answer was: "That's a S64 question."
They didn't agree on how it could be done. They all pointed out that the supreme court might throw out a law banning the party.
The answers of these lawyers, some of whom admitted they are puzzled about the whole business of outlawing the Communist party, are given here:

1. Congress might try to pass a law not only banning the party but making membership in it a crime.

State Might Do It
2. The individual states might try to crush the party by outlawing it and making membership in it a crime.

The states might claim they had a constitutional right to decide what political parties can operate in their territory.

3. Or the states might try to do it this way: By forbidding the Communist party to appear on election ballots unless it had previously won, say, 50,000 votes in a past election.
But then this would certainly follow:

The Communists, outlawed by the state or federal governments, would certainly fight through the courts up to the supreme court.

And the high court might decide that trying to outlaw a political party is unconstitutional and can't be done in this country.

May Use Park Site For New Gymnasium

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—The University of Pittsburgh's proposal that a portion of Schenley Park be used as a site for a four-story $3,000,000 gymnasium was laid before city council yesterday. No action was taken and a later meeting will be held to go into the matter more fully.

Mayor David L. Lawrence said the project is legally feasible but that the city wants to incorporate it with a plan to provide other recreational advantages in the Oakland area.

The proposed building, seating 9,000 to 15,000, would include a basketball court, indoor track, tennis, squash and handball courts and a swimming pool. There would be space also for indoor baseball and football practice.

Pitt's present basketball floor, in the Pitt Stadium, seats only 2,600 and has been declared unsafe by city inspectors.

Finds American Prestige Still High In Russ Zone

By HAL BOYLE
New York, (AP)—Dan DeLuce, back from a long look behind the iron curtain, finds American prestige still is high in European countries within the Soviet sphere.

"Two years aren't enough for a man to learn to shut his mind completely," said DeLuce, veteran Associated Press foreign correspondent. "In any sort of open competition for the friendship of these people, the odds would be five-to-one in our favor—except in Yugoslavia."

"We Hold Top Cards"
DeLuce returned this week from a four-month tour through Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia and Greece—countries that have been part of his news beat since 1939. He talked to hundreds of people in all classes of life, and reached this conclusion:

"We hold the top cards, and if we play them properly there is no reason for alarm or despondency. We still represent in the minds of most people throughout the world the place where human freedom has the best chance to endure."

"The American citizen acts, thinks and moves about more freely than the citizen of any other country wherever he goes."
Just as the American civilian soldier was our best ambassador during the war, DeLuce believes now that our best diplomat in these countries is the peacetime American visitor. Therefore he thinks it important that they be kept open to American travel.

"Interest And Admiration"
"That gives the people of these lands a chance to see that we aren't Wall Street devils who ride over starving children in our limousines—as their controlled press would have them believe," he said.

Wherever he traveled he found among the people a great interest in American affairs and an admiration for her production techniques. One Russian engineer joked: "We'd like to come over and study how you do it."

DeLuce said the Soviet campaign to convince the satellite people within her sphere that the United States was a power-hungry nation of war mongers was counterbalanced by their realization it was Russia herself who had enlarged her borders at the expense of European neighbors.

Experienced Reporter
"We have more blood ties with these countries than the Soviet Union," he pointed out. "There are more Yugoslavs in San Pedro, Calif., than there are in Moscow."

ODD BALLOON DISAPPEARS

Allentown, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—A high flying object—described variously as a balloon and a star—drifted mysteriously over Pennsylvania's Lehigh Valley and western New Jersey before disappearing into the dusk last night.

Pilot Herbert Lenhart gave the closest eye witness report after a flight from the Allentown-Bethlehem airport in pursuit of the "balloon." Lenhart said he reached an altitude of 12,000 feet over Easton, Pa., and that the object of his chase was still 7,000 feet higher.

Professor Ralph Van Arman of Lehigh university said the object appeared through a high power telescope to be a balloon but was definitely not a weather balloon. Weather stations in the area said no weather or sound balloons had been sent aloft.

Residents of Wilkes-Barre, 60 miles from Allentown, reported about the same time that a shining object which looked like a star appeared in the sky over that city. It faded from sight as dusk fell.

U.S. TO IGNORE NEW RUSSIAN ATTACK IN UN

By HARRY HAUCK

Late Success, Oct. 23 (P)—The United States will make no answer "in kind" to Andrei V. Vishinsky's "warmonger" accusations, but plans instead a strong appeal to the United Nations to reject Soviet plans for curbs on free speech and free writing, an authoritative delegation source said today.

The American policy will be made in the 51-nation political committee by permanent delegate Warren R. Austin and was read by the latter today.

The delegation source said Austin's anti-four-point speech was written before Vishinsky's attack on the committee debate on "warmongering" yesterday and would be revised only slightly.

OK From Marshall

Secretary of State George C. Marshall has approved the speech, which was described as an American delegation spokesman as "strong."

The spokesman said the U. S. would present no counter proposals and expressed belief that Austin would refuse to support any other version.

It was understood that Austin would emphasize freedom of the press and freedom of speech as practiced in the United States and also would note that the U. N. charter provides for freedom of expression and broad human rights.

Austin made this statement to the press immediately after the Soviet deputy foreign minister spoke yesterday.

"Mr. Vishinsky's attack is part of the propaganda campaign the Soviet press and radio have carried on for many months with growing intens-

Pilot Lands Safely Amid Brick Piles

Phoenixville, Pa., Oct. 23 (P)—A Raverton, N. J., pilot landed his small private plane in the one cleared space of a brick yard without injury to himself or damage to his ship.

The pilot, Horace A. James left the field of the Marshall Flying Service at Morristown, N. J., stopped at Reading, Pa., and was heading home when darkness caught him last night and forced him to land amid stored piles of bricks at the McAvoy brick yard on Route 23, two miles east of here.

This Soviet propaganda campaign is designed generally to discredit the government and people of the United States and of other countries and to cast doubt upon the sincerity of their peaceful intentions. Its effect is to create confusion and will hinder the accomplishment of constructive tasks."

70-Minute Tirade

Vishinsky's speech yesterday ran 70 minutes. It contained little new material. He increased the list of American individuals he has attacked as "warmongers," singling out Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman, Secretary of Defense James Forrestal and former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes. He also attacked American publications, including the "Hearst press," the magazine "Foreign Policy Reports," "The Field Artillery Journal," and "Successful Farming" as contributing to "war propaganda."

A speech by Dr. Herbert V. Evans of Australia provided the first answer to the Russian case. The Australian foreign minister counter-attacked that the Soviet press and radio are encouraging war by "persistent" abuse and attack on the United States of America.

State Figures On 1947 Peach Crop

Despite heavy losses in both quality and quantity in the Adams, Franklin and York areas, the state peach production this year bettered the ten year average and was only 300,000 bushels behind last year's output, the state department of agriculture has reported.

Ornamental fruit moth, brown rot, and lack of suitable labor to harvest the peaches made heavy inroads into the possible peach production, the state pointed out.

On a state average peaches were of good size and quality and met with ready sale, the state department of agriculture said.

U.S. TO IGNORE NEW RUSSIAN ATTACK IN UN

By HARRY HAUCK

Lake Success, Oct. 23 (AP)—The United States will make no answer "in kind" to Andrei Y. Vishinsky's blistering "warmonger" accusations but plans instead a strong appeal to the United Nations to reject Soviet plans for curbs on free speech and free writing, an authoritative delegation source said today.

The American policy speech will be made in the 57-nation political committee by permanent delegate Warren R. Austin and was ready for delivery today.

The delegation source said Austin's half-hour speech was written before Vishinsky opened the committee debate on "warmongering" yesterday and would be revised only slightly.

OK From Marshall

Secretary of State George C. Marshall has approved the speech, which was described by an American delegation spokesman as "strong."

The spokesman said the U. S. would present no counter proposals and expressed belief that Austin would refuse to support any other versions.

It was understood that Austin would emphasize freedom of the press and freedom of speech as practiced in the United States and also would note that the U. N. charter provides for freedom of expression and broad human rights.

Austin issued this statement to the press immediately after the Soviet deputy foreign minister spoke yesterday.

"Mr. Vishinsky's speech is part of the propaganda campaign the Soviet press and radio have carried on for many months with growing intens-

Pilot Lands Safely Amid Brick Piles

Phoenixville, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—A Riverton, N. J., pilot landed his small private plane in the one cleared space of a brick yard without injury to himself or damage to his ship.

The pilot, Horace A. James left the field of the Marshall Flying Service at Morristown, N. J., stopped at Reading, Pa., and was heading home when darkness caught him last night and forced him to land amid stored piles of bricks at the McAvoy brick yard on Route 83, two miles east of here.

ity. This Soviet propaganda campaign is designed generally to discredit the government and people of the United States and of other countries and to cast doubt upon the sincerity of their peaceful intentions. Its effect is to create confusion that will hinder the accomplishment of constructive tasks."

70-Minute Tirade

Vishinsky's speech yesterday ran 70 minutes. It contained little new material. He increased the list of American individuals he has attacked as "warmongers," singling out Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman, Secretary of Defense James Forrestal and former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes. He also assailed American publications, including the "Hearst press," the magazine "Foreign Policy Reports," "The Field Artillery Journal," and "Successful Farming" as contributing to "war propaganda."

A speech by Dr. Herbert V. Evatt of Australia provided the first "answer" to the Russian case. The Australian foreign minister counter-charged that the Soviet press and radio are encouraging war by "persistent, unrestrained attacks on the United States of America."

SIGNER—Thakin Nu, (above) provisional prime minister of Burma, signed the treaty in London whereby England recognized Burma's complete independence.

State Figures On 1947 Peach Crop

Despite heavy losses in both quality and quantity in the Adams, Franklin and York area, the state peach production this year bettered the ten year average and was only 300,000 bushels behind last year's output the state department of agriculture has reported.

Oriental fruit moth, brown rot, and lack of suitable labor to harvest the peaches made heavy inroads into the possible peach production, the state pointed out.

On a state average peaches were of good size and quality and met with ready sale, the state department of agriculture reported.

OPINIONS VARY ON OUTLAWING OF COMMUNISTS

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Oct. 23 (AP)—"Our law the Communist party," says the witness. "That's not to get rid of Communism in this country."

All around the big hearing room people—but not all the people nod their heads yes, yes.

For three days it's been like that at the Un-American Activities committee hearing on whether there's Communist influence in Hollywood.

One witness after another has climbed up on the stand, talked about Communism, and then said: "Outlaw the party."

It's easier to talk of outlawing the party than it is to do it. Outlaw it now?

"S64 Question"

Seeking a definite answer to that question, this writer called a number of lawyers here and in New York. Lawyers inside and outside the government. They are men who are specialists in civil rights and liberties.

Bunched together, their answer was: "That's a S64 question."

They didn't agree on how it could be done. They all pointed out that the supreme court might throw out a law banning the party.

The answers of those lawyers, some of whom admitted they are puzzled about the whole business of outlawing the Communist party, are given here:

1. Congress might try to pass a law not only banning the party but making membership in it a crime.

State Might Do It

2. The individual states might try to crush the party by outlawing it and making membership in it a crime.

The states might claim they had a constitutional right to decide what political parties can operate in their territory.

3. Or the states might try to do it this way: By forbidding the Communist party to appear on election ballots unless it had previously won, say, 50,000 votes in a past election.

But then this would certainly follow:

The Communists, outlawed by the state or federal governments, would certainly fight through the courts up to the supreme court.

And the high court might decide that trying to outlaw a political party is unconstitutional and can't be done in this country.

May Use Park Site For New Gymnasium

Pittsburgh, Oct. 23 (AP)—The University of Pittsburgh's proposal that a portion of Schenley Park be used as a site for a four-story $3,000,000 gymnasium was laid before city council yesterday. No action was taken and a later meeting will be held to go into the matter more fully.

Mayor David L. Lawrence said the project is legally feasible but that the city wants to incorporate it with a plan to provide other recreational advantages in the Oakland area.

The proposed building, seating 2,000 to 15,000, would include a basketball court, indoor track, tennis, squash and handball courts and a swimming pool. There would be space also for major baseball and football practice.

The present basketball floor in the Pitt Stadium seats only 2,000 and has been declared unsafe by city inspectors.

Finds American Prestige Still High In Russ Zone

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP)—Dan DeLuce, back from a long look behind the iron curtain, finds American prestige still is high in European countries within the Soviet sphere.

"Two years aren't enough for a man to learn to shut his mind completely," said DeLuce, veteran, Associated Press foreign correspondent.

"In any sort of open competition for the friendship of these people, the odds would be five-to-one in our favor—except in Yugoslavia."

"We Hold Top Cards"

DeLuce returned this week from a four-month tour through Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia and Greece—countries that have been part of his news beat since 1939. He talked to hundreds of people in all classes of life, and reached this conclusion:

"We hold the top cards, and if we play them properly there is no reason for alarm or despondency. We still represent in the minds of most people throughout the world the place where human freedom has the best chance to endure."

"The American citizen acts, thinks and moves about more freely than the citizen of any other country wherever he goes."

Just as the American civilian soldier was our best ambassador during the war, DeLuce believes now that our best diplomat in these countries is the peacetime American visitor. Therefore he thinks it important that they be kept open to American travel.

"Interest And Admiration"

"That gives the people of these lands a chance to see that we aren't Wall Street devils who ride over starving children in our limousines—as their controlled press would have them believe," he said.

Wherever he traveled he found among the people a great interest in American affairs and an admiration for her production techniques. One Russian engineer joked: "We'd like to come over and study how you do it."

DeLuce said the Soviet campaign to convince the satellite people within her sphere that the United States was a power-hungry nation of war mongers was counterbalanced by their realization it was Russia herself who had enlarged her borders at the expense of European neighbors.

Experienced Reporter

"We have more blood ties with these countries than the Soviet Union," he pointed out. "There are more Yugoslavs in San Pedro, Calif., than there are in Moscow."

DeLuce's views are those of a trained, impartial observer, skilled in political reporting.

He is a six-foot, three-inch sandy-haired writer known among his fellow correspondents for daring war exploits and his insistence on getting his facts first hand. He won a Pulitzer prize in 1944 for his fear of crossing the Adriatic the year before and getting the first eye-witness stories on Yugoslavia's partisan fighters.

I asked him what struck him most about America on his return.

"The fact that nine-tenths of our people seem to live as well or better than the top ten per cent of Europeans," he said.

ODD BALLOON DISAPPEARS

Allentown, Pa., Oct. 23 (AP)—A high flying object—described variously as in balloon and a star—drifted mysteriously over Pennsylvania's Lehigh Valley and western New Jersey before disappearing into the dusk last night.

Pilot Herbert Lenhart gave the closest eye witness report after a flight from the Allentown-Bethlehem airport in pursuit of the "balloon." Lenhart said he reached an altitude of 12,100 feet over Easton, Pa., and that the object of his chase was still 7,000 feet higher.

Professor Ralph Van Arman of Lehigh university said the object appeared through a high power telescope to be a balloon but was definitely not a weather balloon. Weather stations in the area said no weather or sound balloons had been sent aloft.

PA. PRODUCTION FIGURES GIVEN; YIELD IMPROVES

An all-time record average yield of 160 bushels per acre for the 1947 Pennsylvania potato crop was reported today by the state Department of Agriculture.

It exceeds last year's record by two bushels per acre, a Federal-State survey revealed, and a total crop of 17,600,000 bushels is expected.

With the exception of buckwheat, peaches, and pears all other crops held their own in production estimates during the month, the Department reported. Hot, humid weather caused deterioration of peaches from brown rot. The October 1 estimate of 1,920,000 bushels was 180,000 under that of a month previous.

Bumper Wheat Crop

The bumper wheat crop of 1947 is reported at 22,272,000 bushels, largest in 10 years. Yield per acre at 24 bushels is nearly four more than average, 1936-45. Corn at 58,136,000 bushels is better than four million above average, but oats at $19,054,000 bushels is six million below average. Barley, at slightly more than four million bushels, is nearly a million above average and rye at 294,000 bushels compares with the 10-year average of 828,000. Hay production, at 3,673,000 tons while not quite up to last year's 3,804,000, is about 370,000 tons above average.

With commercial apple harvest near its peak, a crop of 6,728,000 bushels is in sight, 1,840,000 below last year and 112,000 under average. Pears at 274,000 bushels compare with 345,000 last year and the
